JAPAN PRESS SIZZLES OVER 'ENCIRCLING'

Renews Attacks as U. S. Still Waits Reply To Hull Terms of Peace.

TENSION INCREASES

Chinese Report Jap Warship Concentration; Privy Council In Session.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Roosevelt and congressional leaders talked for 90 minutes today in a conference which "thoroughly canvassed" the Far Eastern situation "in connection with the defense of our territories and our vital interests."

(By Associated Press)

The Japanese press sizzled anew today over alleged "encirclement" of Japan by the ABCD group of America, Britain, China and Dutch Indies, while the United States continued to await Japan's reply to Secretary of State Hull's terms for peace in the Pacific.

New Japanese military maneuvers increased the tension.

In Chungking, a Chinese army spokesman said 40 Japanese warships, including an aircraft carrier with 45 planes aboard, had been spotted in Camranh bay, on the southeast coast of French Indo-China—a potential springboard for attacks on Singapore, the Dutch East Indies or the Philippines.

The spokesman said Chinese secret service operatives had also discovered that the Japanese were hastily building an air base in western Indo-China near the Gulf of Siam (Thailand) and had impressed 5,000 native workers for the job.

Meantime, dispatches from Manila reported the arrival there of the first group of American transportation men en route to the Far East to keep war supplies rolling over the Burma road to China. American planes and pilots will guard them from air attacks over the long road.

As the United States waited for Japan's answer to Hull's terms the Tokyo privy council, Emperor Hirohito's highest advisory organ, discussed American-Japanese relations in a two and one-half hour session.

Premier Gen. Hideki Tojo and Foreign Minister Shigenori Togo reported to the council in detail,

Peck of Potatoes Is a Peck of Potatoes But It Depends on Where You Live What They Cost

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—A peck of potatoes in Washington, D. C., looks exactly like a peck of potatoes in Boston, Mass., but there is a spread of 23 cents in their price today.

The grade of eggs which brings 37 cents a dozen in Denver brings 59 cents a dozen in Boston.

Not only is the cost of food rising but it is rising in a series of erratic geographical jerks by which commodities still within pocketbook range in one section of the country have made the luxury grade in another.

Polling International News Service bureaus throughout the country for prevailing prices on grocery shopping day brought some surprising comparisons.

Potatoes on that day ranged in price from Boston's 33 cents a peck to Washington's 60 cents. Atlanta paid 46, Chicago 40, Dallas 45, Denver 33, Houston 37, Los Angeles 38, New Orleans 44, Portland, Ore., 41.

Milk ranged in price from Dallas' 39 cents a gallon, or less than 10 cents a quart, to New York's 16 cents a quart. It was 15 cents in Atlanta, Boston and Chicago, 12 cents in Denver, 13 in Los Angeles and 16 in Portland.

Hard-Pressed Nazis Facing Open Revolt

Mass Troops In Bulgaria as Armies Flee Headlong In Ukraine; Reds Report Successes Near Moscow, Leningrad, Libya Fight Lulls.

(By Associated Press)

Adolf Hitler's invasion armies, hard-pressed on the sands of North Africa and flung into headlong retreat in the Russian Ukraine, had a new fight on their hands today as Serb guerrillas were reported battling three Axis divisions in old Yugoslavia.

At the same time, a London broadcast reported that fresh German troops had been rushed to points along Bulgaria's southern frontier with Turkey, to which President Roosevelt has extended American lend-lease aid.

The broadcast said that Nazi military preparations all along the frontier had been stepped up, and that the Germans were tightening their control on Bulgarian ports and air fields.

There was no immediate indication whether Germany feared that British-allied Turkey, encouraged by Russia's sweeping counter-offensive in the Ukraine, might open a new "back door" front in the Balkans, or whether Hitler planned to move into Turkey himself.

A Serb communique, issued in Cairo, said the Germans had launched "what appears to be a general offensive" against positions held by unconquered guerrilla forces of Gen. Draja Mihailovic in a valley of the western Morava river.

"Our forces are resisting successfully in the face of furious onslaughts," the communique said, "although in the sector of Uzice enemy tank attacks have obliged one of our units to withdraw."

Uzice, a battle-torn town of 12,000 population, is about 80 miles southeast of Belgrade.

"Our troops are in high spirits," the Serb bulletin said.

German troops in Yugoslavia have been estimated at five divisions (about 75,000 men), while Gen. Mihailovic is said to have 80,000 soldiers, sworn to wipe out the Nazi conquerors.

A Havas (French news agency) dispatch said 1,500 persons were killed by a munitions dump explosion at Oujitza, Serbia, in a fight between guerrillas and government troops.

Official London announcements recently have reported 350,000 persons killed in mass executions in Yugoslavia since its fall last spring.

Coincidentally, in Nazi-conquered France, the German military commander of Paris threatened "the most rigorous of reprisal measures" unless Paris citizens surrender the perpetrators of two

Strike Curb Bill Goes to Senate

SOFTENING OF DRASTIC TERMS EXPECTED THERE

Measure as Passed 252-136 By House Clamps Down Hard on Walkouts.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—A hard-boiled strike curb bill, stamped with an unexpected house endorsement of almost 2 to 1, moved to the senate today where extensive modification appeared probable.

Senators predicted freely that their chamber would relax the bill's drastic terms, and then let a senate-house conference committee work out some agreement on the final scope of the legislation needed to avert work stoppages in vital defense plants.

After working itself into a complicated parliamentary snarl, the house finally rolled up a 252 to 136 vote yesterday for the far-reaching bill by Rep. Smith (D.-Va) without even considering some pending "middle-of-the-road" measures.

The Smith bill, admittedly subject to refinements of phrasing, provides for cooling-off periods ranging from 30 to 90 days in defense labor disputes, during which time the national defense mediation board, given statutory life and power, would use its good offices to prevent a strike.

In addition, the bill would forbid jurisdictional, boycott and sympathy strikes, would freeze existing closed or open shop arrangements for the duration of the defense emergency, and would permit a defense strike only if a majority of the workers affected gave their approval by secret ballot.

Other sections would prohibit the importation of strike-breakers by employers or pickets by unions, and would deny Wagner labor re-

WOULD SPEND 150 BILLIONS FOR VICTORY

Defense Officials Prepare Plan for $5,000,000,000 Expenditures For Month.

WASHINGTON — Top-ranking defense officials have approved details of a $150,000,000,000 "victory program" to defeat the Axis and said today they have agreed to build up the defense spending rate to a peak of $5,000,000,000 a month by June 1943.

Such a program is more than twice as much as congress has authorized or is contemplating spending. If approved, it will bounce the national debt toward $100,000,000,000.

Broad details may be announced within the next three weeks. One high defense official said. He said sponsors of the program are confident of winning President Roosevelt's approval and that they already have received the "wholehearted" approval of Vice President Henry A. Wallace, head of the supply priorities and allocations board which formulates defense policies.

The existing defense program, including an appropriation of $8,243,839,031 approved by a house committee yesterday, totals $67,990,254,096. The house will take up the new bill today. It includes money for increasing the army to 2,000,000 men and acquiring huge stocks of guns, tanks and airplanes.

But the "victory program" envisages appropriation of at least $75,000,000,000 more, a well-placed defense official said.

Most of the new funds, if made available, will be spent for tanks and other combat vehicles, planes, anti-tank and anti-air-

Military Supplies Help Nation Defend Dardanelles Under Pact With British.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The United States began furnishing Turkey with military supplies six months ago so the Turks could stand by their pledge to Britain to defend Turkey and the strategic Dardanelles against any threat of Axis aggression.

This Turko-British pact, it was learned authoritatively today, accounts to a great extent for President Roosevelt's formal decision adding Turkey to the list of nations eligible for lend-lease aid.

The White House statement yesterday, however, said merely: "The president announced that he had found the defense of Turkey vital to the defense of the United States and had directed Lend-Lease Administrator E. R. Stettinius, jr., to see that the defense needs of the government of Turkey were filled as soon as possible."

Under present plans, it was disclosed, future lease-lend aid to Turkey is expected to include some $100,000,000 worth of planes, tanks, trucks, anti-tank an anti-aircraft guns, ammunition and other supplies urgently required by the Turkish army.

All supply shipments since last May have been made to Great Britain, which in turn delivered them to Turkey, and it was learned that this procedure would prevail on all future shipments.

By this arrangement, it was ex-

Christmas Show Tickets Placed In Circulation

Author Louis Bromfield whose former home in France was a meeting place for American authors and newspaper correspondents, will introduce the two ace war correspondents who will speak on the city's Give-a-Christmas program Thursday night, Dec. 11 in Johnny Appleseed junior high school.

The men who will bring Mansfielders a first-hand and accurate picture of the war are Richard C. Hottelet, who is with the United Press, and Robert G. Nixon, International News service writer.

The Junior Association of Commerce, one of the sponsors of the party, launched a campaign today to sell tickets for the community program to raise funds for Christmas baskets for the needy. Tickets will cost 55 cents, including the federal tax, and will be available at 12 business establishments in the city and at The News-Journal.

The holiday party will be given by the J. A. C. and The News-Journal with the Community Fund serving as a clearing house by distributing the baskets to families that need them most.

It will be a complete party with something to interest everyone. Besides the informative talks on the war picture by Hottelet and Nixon, there will be music and other entertainment.

RAISE $2,000

Christmas Seal Drive Nets Third of $6,000 Goal.

Approximately $2,000, or a third of the county's $6,000 goal in the 1941 Christmas seal campaign, had been raised today, just three weeks before Christmas.

Mrs. Margaret Adams, executive secretary of the county T. B. seal committee, said the committee hoped to have the funds all collected before Christmas, however, and urged the persons who received seals to return them with money for the ones purchased as early as possible.

Cards will go out later in a follow-up campaign as reminders that the stamps and the funds are due, Mrs. Adams said.

The money to finance the campaign to stamp out tuberculosis comes from the sale of attractive Christmas seals for letters, cards, and holiday packages. Supplies of the seals were mailed several days ago to prospective purchasers.

DISCLOSE HELP TO RUSSIA LAGS

Administration Officials Seek Improved Means of of Transportation.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Delivery of war equipment to the Soviet Union is lagging behind United States commitments made at the recent Moscow conference and administration officials have begun a survey of transportation facilities to correct the situation, it was disclosed today.

Shipments to the Russians have been below our promises for 60 days, although the amount of aid dispatched under the lend-lease program was described as "substantial."

The survey is being rushed, presumably at the request of the White House. It will seek to iron out two major problems in the transportation bottleneck:

1. Insufficient numbers of ships for the Russian assignment.

Each regiment in the 37th has prepared a float for a parade to precede the rally. The 34th division won an early season game from the 37th, 14 to 0.

EXTENDS AGES

British House Passes New Mobilization Measure.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—The house of commons today passed Prime Minister Churchill's plan for maximum mobilization of men and women by 326 to 10, after putting down an insurgent Laborite amendment which also would have conscripted wealth.

The Laborite amendment which also would have nationalized many industries was beaten 336 to 40.

To meet Laborite assertions that the conscription was not going to be broad enough, Labor Minister Ernest Bevin told parliament before the vote that the government was determined that "neither interest, property, persons nor prejudices" would be allowed to interfere with the supreme objective of winning the war.

The bill widens conscript age limits to include men from 18½ to 50 years and provides for compulsory uniformed service by young unmarried women.

Tappan Employes to Get Cash, Turkeys and Vacation as Gift From Company.

Santa Claus will pay an early visit to 850 employes of the Tappan Stove company who will receive Christmas bonuses amounting to $121,000. Alan Tappan, company vice president, announced today.

Former employes of the company who are now in the army will share the holiday bonus, each receiving a full share of the extra pay just as if he had worked during the entire year, Tappan said.

The $121,000 present will be distributed in three ways:

1. In extra pay equivalent to five cents an hour for every hour the employe worked this year; 2. Free turkeys for every company worker; 3. A week's vacation with pay from Christmas to New Year for every employe.

The bonus money will be distributed in time to permit workers to use it for holiday shopping if they desire, company officials said.

Maine Cattle Man Given Acquittal In Girl's Death

FARMINGTON, Me. —(INS)— Fred G. Wheeler, 50, wealthy cattle dealer, acquitted by a jury of eleven men and one woman in connection with the pistol-death of pretty 20-year-old Florence Buzzell, today was back at his farm.

Immediately after announcement of the verdict, Wheeler, weeping with happiness, staged a joyful reunion with his wife who stood by him during the trial, which featured testimony concerning his "love" trysts with his protege, Miss Buzzell.

"I had no worry because I knew I was innocent," said Wheeler. "I'm grateful to the jury for their finding and to the court for a fair, impartial trial. I intend to return to cattle trading."

Mrs. Wheeler said: "I knew my husband was innocent and I was confident that he would be cleared."

MAKES CHARGES

Investigator Says 'Defense Broker' Makes $97,000.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) —Special Investigator Gordon K. Miller today told a house military affairs subcommittee that Leon K. Shanack, alleged New York "defense broker," has made $97,405.70 in commissions for his services in obtaining defense contracts for one firm.

Miller, who searched Shanack's confidential records, said that he also stands to collect an additional $91,959 on pending orders for the same company. This would result in a total of $189,364 in commissions, if the orders now pending go through.

These figures, Miller said, represent only Shanack's transactions with one company, the Greenwich Machine and Tool company of New York. He said Shanack has "numerous other orders" which are not represented in the figures he presented.

Company Officials Say Ohioan Defaulted on Motion.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Contending that Charles West, former Ohio congressman and undersecretary of the interior, defaulted in connection with a motion to examine him before trial, the Empire Ordnance corporation has filed notice of a motion to dismiss West's $687,000 suit for commissions on $70,000,000 in war contracts.

West's complaint alleged that the company had paid him only $13,000 of $700,000 due.

City's In Pickle, Santa Claus Jobs Are Going Begging

About the only thing the government has not yet priority-rated is the annual supply of Santa Clauses, yet Employment service officials claim that Santa Clauses are becoming harder and harder to find every year.

Yesterday, C. W. Handley, manager of the Mansfield branch of the Ohio state employment service, said that he had requests for five to ten Santas from local and nearby stores at an average wage of 50 cents per hour. Three of these jolly fellaws, he could put to work at once, but as yet he has had no applicants for the jobs.

The requirements are simple. The prospective Santas must be rather heavy-set, have a pleasant personality, and be able to get along with children.

Santas won't even have to kiss the little ones who come to confide in him this year, because the local board of health believes too many germs lurk in his white whiskers.

Anyone interested in playing Santa should contact Handley at once on 50 North Diamond street.

Mansfield Mother Speeds to Bedside of Her Soldier-Son

Because sympathetic Mansfield civic organizations and individuals raised a $195 fund for her, a Mansfield mother was speeding by train to New Orleans today to see her soldier-son who is critically ill and facing a serious operation to save his eyesight.

Hurrying to her son's bedside is Mrs. William Mertler, 365 Central avenue. Her son, Nick Keehner, who left Mansfield last year when Battery D members went to camp, is to undergo an operation for a brain tumor which already has robbed him of the sight in one eye. The operation may save his other eye, but there is a chance that he may not survive, Mrs. Mertler was told.

Mrs. Mertler is being accompanied by her daughter, Margaret, and to help them get located they will be met by representatives of the Red Cross in New Orleans who were contacted by the Mansfield Red Cross chapter.

Three months ago Keehner returned to Mansfield to attend funeral services for his stepfather, William Mertler, and then returned to Camp Shelby to await his release from the army.

Just a week before he received his release papers, he was stricken with what Capt. Harry Snyder of Battery D termed a brain tumor. He was then rushed to New Orleans for treatment.

Charles Hyman, of 86 Park avenue west, brother-in-law of Capt. Snyder, contacted Frank Mitsch, proprietor of Mitsch's Corner store, and together they made plans to send the mother and her

Speed Signs Puzzle Drivers But City Will Correct Error

Motorists passing Brinkerhoff school on Marion avenue have been confused this past week with the contradictory signs warning of legal speed limits in that section and it is all because of an error on the part of city workers.

Although it is undoubtedly in the school zone where 20 miles-an hour is the limit during school activity, a utility pole in front of the school has a marker advising motorists to maintain a 35-mile-an-hour limit.

On both sides of the school zone are other signs cautioning a 20-mile-an-hour speed. Still further down the street but within a hundred feet of the school is a fourth sign which carries the 35-mile warning.

Traffic Commissioner Frend C. Boals said today that city workers had placed the signs late last week while he was out of the city and had placed them somewhat indiscriminately. He stated he had already made several changes in the placement of signs on Park avenue but had not known of the signs near the Brinkerhoff school.

The signs will be moved away from that district, Boals promised. Marion avenue is part of State Route 545 and a 35-mile-an-hour speed limit is allowed except in school zones, Boals pointed out that the 35-mile limit also extends to school zones during the hours when there is no activity in the school.

Boals said the new signs were being placed about the city on state routes in compliance with the new state traffic code which went into effect in September.

U. S. AID BACKS TURKEY PLEDGE

Military Supplies Help Nation Defend Dardanelles Under Pact With British.

plained, Britain will be enabled to fulfill her treaty promises of military supplies in return for Turkey's pledge not to allow any aggressor the use of Turkish territory as a pathway for attacks on Iraq, Iran, Palestine, Suez, or the vitally important Caucasus and Mosul oilfields.

The United States and Great Britain alone were said authoritatively to have worked out the Turkish lease-lend agreement. The Turks, looking to the British for the promised arms and munitions, did not ask the United States for lend-lease aid, played no role in the negotiations, and made no pledges or commitments to the American government.

Berlin Caustic On U. S. Help To Turks

BERLIN — (AP) — President Roosevelt's announcement that lend-lease aid is being extended to Turkey was a subject of caustic comment among authorized Germans today.

"It is interesting to note the ever-expanding American defense zone now embraces the Near East," one commentator said. "But mark my word, the last word has not been spoken in this matter."

The offer to Turkey was called an American thrust ("vorstoss") into a region remote from "the legitimate sphere of American interests."

British Hail FDR Action On Turkey

LONDON — (INS) — British authorities today hailed President Roosevelt's action in granting lend-lease armaments to Turkey and declaring defense of Turkey "vital to the defense of the United States."

An authoritative statement issued in London said the British government "always has regarded it as vital that the sovereignty and independence of Turkey remain unimpaired."

It added that the renewed indication that the United States appreciates Turkey's vital position has been received in London with "much satisfaction."

Britain was declared to have full confidence that Turkey will fulfill her treaty obligations with Britain.

ceive defense bonds for the extra pay with an optional cash payment if desired. That is, if a worker was with the company throughout this year he will get a $100 defense bond and $25 in cash.

With the announcement of the holiday bonus, company officials said a dividend of $1.25 per share will be paid to stockholders Dec. 15. The dividend payment will bring the year's total to $2 as compared with $1.75 per share in 1940.

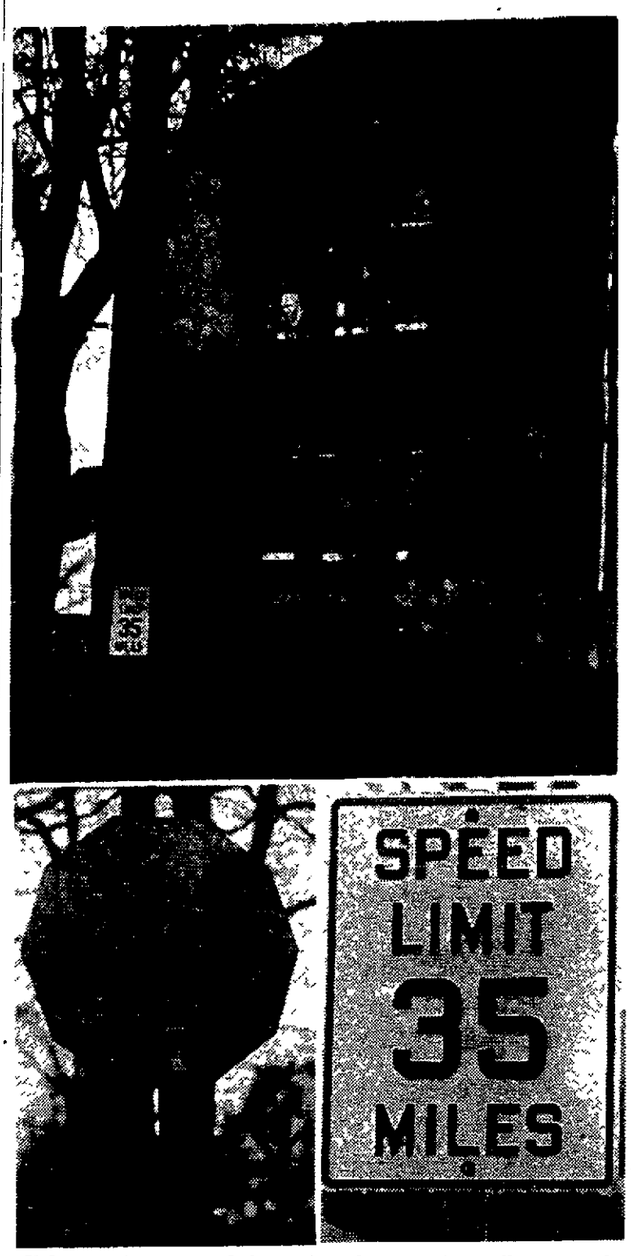
The bonus to soldiers who left the company during the year will be the second to service men. They received a month's pay when they were inducted into the army.

The week's vacation after Christmas is the second vacation for employes this year. They had a week with pay in July.

FREE FOR CHRISTMAS

SOUTH VIENNA — (AP) — Electricity consumed during December in this Clark county village of 500 is "on the house." The village board of public affairs announced that there would be no electric bills for the month. The village buys its power from the Ohio Edison company.

Baffle Marion Avenue Drivers



Unless you're prepared for a speeding quiz game, you had better avoid driving your car on Marion avenue. As you approach Brinkerhoff school at about 35 miles-an-hour, you will be assured that you are not breaking the law by a traffic sign reading "Speed limit 35 miles." A few feet further, however, you will be appalled to see another sign "School 20 miles." You tramp heavily on the brake pedal. Another few feet and you spy as you pass the school entrance a third sign "Speed limit 35 miles." You perk up again until you reach the other end of the school zone where another "School 20 miles" greets you. In the upper picture, a utility pole in front of the school carries a 35-mile-an-hour sign which has been confusing motorists for the past week. Bottom left, here's the school zone sign. Bottom right, and heres the 35-mile-an-hour sign again. Traffic Commissioner Frend C. Boals said today that the 35-mile-an-hour signs were placed there by city workers and that the error would be corrected soon.

daughter to Keehner's bedside.

They solicited funds from stores in the east side of town, civic organizations and the Red Cross to raise $195 00 necessary for the trip.

"It's really amazing," Mitsch said this morning, "the number of peopde who have contributed to the fund. When we started collections we didn't have any idea of getting that much money.

"Yesterday I put the mother and daughter on a train at Crestline with all expenses paid and assurance from the Red Cross that they will be cared for at their destination," he explained.

Mayor W. J. Locke drew up a petition for Mitsch and personally took it through the City building seeking contributions, Mitsch said.

Other groups that contributed were the American Legion, the Sons of Herman, the German Benefit Union, the Veterans of Foreign Wars and a number of stores in the east side which posted collection containers for contributions.

"The Legion contributed the most money," said Mitsch, "but there were a great many nickels, dimes and quarters contributed."

The daughter will accompany Mrs. Mertler on the trip because her mother, a native of Austria-Hungary, has trouble with the English language, Mitsch said.

STRIKES BILL GOES TO SENATE

Upper House Expected to Ease Drastic Provisions of Labor Measure.

lations act benefits to unions whose officers included members of the Communist party, Young Communist league or the German-American bund.

Individuals violating various terms of the legislation would be denied benefits under the Wagner act and the social security and unemployment compensation laws.

Smith gained a number of Republican votes for his bill by striking out a section which would have authorized the government, as a last resort, to take over and operate defense plants where production was impeded by labor disputes.

Predictions were that the senate would insist upon milder legislation.

Senator Ball (R-Minn) declared the house bill would be "drastically revised." Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said the senate "probably won't take all of the provisions of the Smith bill."

Rep. Ramspeck (D-Ga), advocate of an administration-supported measure less sweeping than the Smith bill, commented:

"The psychology was that the members thought that they had to vote for a bill and that any bill would make labor mad. So they thought it would be better to go the whole way and satisfy the other side."

It was a decision by house leaders to afford equal opportunities for votes on both the Smith and Ramspeck bills that led to the unexpected easy victory for the Smith bill. Apparently a large number of the lawmakers assumed the Smith measure would be sidetracked at the last moment, to permit consideration of the Ramspeck bill which had been approved by the labor committee.

Try To Route Labor Bill To Committee

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Acting senate leaders sought today to route drastic house-approved labor legislation — outlawing mass picketing and "minority" strikes — to the labor committee where a milder mediation measure could be substituted.

Most of the key figures connected with senate efforts to provide labor legislation are in Colorado for the funeral of Sen. Alva B. Adams, but the initial reaction of labor committee members was that the Smith bill, passed by the house 252 to 136, was "too drastic."

2. Inadequate landing, storage and transportation facilities at the northern port of Archangel and along the Persian gulf route from Basra. The third possible route, via Vladivostok, is threatened by the Far Eastern crisis.

Maritime commission officials declined to answer specific questions about the rate of shipments to the Soviet Union, but said that since President Roosevelt's promise of aid to the Russians "every effort has been made to secure as many ships as possible" for the job.

They said the United States has an overall shortage of ships to meet demands but that "in general the commission has been able to keep to its schedule on shipments to the Soviet."

craft guns. A large portion of the funds it is proposed to allocate for planes would be for four-engined bombers.

Originally, the defense planners wanted to complete the "victory program" within two years, or by the end of 1943. But they have revised their schedule and plans now call for completion in three years, or by the end of 1944.

Through "almost merciless conversion" of present non-defense plants, these officials expect to gradually step up production until it reaches a $5,000,000,000 monthly peak by June 1943—nearly triple the present defense outlay each month.

and it was announced that "active opinions were exchanged."

Amid the bristling tension, Portugal was reported to have joined in the rush of defense measures among Europe's colonies in the Orient.

The Vichy (French) radio said the Portuguese minister of colonies had ordered to active service all reserve officers in the colony of Timor, on the eastern tip of the Malayan peninsula.

In Tokyo, the newspaper Yomiuri displayed a photograph of Thai troops marching in Bangkok, the Thai capital, and said the country's neutrality was menaced by intensified British and American propaganda.

Koh Ishii, former Japanese cabinet spokesman, now Japanese embassy counsellor in Bangkok, declared that collapse of Washington-Tokyo negotiations would not mean an immediate outbreak of hostilities in the Far East. Relations between the United States and Japan were not such as to precipitate war, he said.

His optimism was not echoed, however, by Foreign Minister Togo, who bluntly stated that the refusal of the United States, Britain and their associates to "understand" Japan's program for East Asia had created an unprecedented crisis.

Domei, the Japanese news agency, summarizing Tokyo press reaction to Secretary Hull's statement yesterday, said the papers showed "shocked surprise and extreme pessimism" over the future of Washington negotiations.

The newspaper Nichi Nichi headlined its Washington dispatch:

"Hull slanders Japanese foreign policy, reveals United States insincere regarding Japanese-American negotiations."

Mr. Hull's statement had indicated an unbridgeable gap between the attitudes of the United States and Japanese governments.

DETROIT FACES STRIKE THREAT

City Employes Present Program Demanding Wage Boost.

DETROIT — (AP) — The city government was confronted today with a strike threat of its workers organized by the City Employes union (AFL) which has presented a 16-point program of demands, including a 15 per cent wage increase.

At a mass meeting last night union officials said members of local 77 voted 1,451 to 11 in favor of strike action by Dec. 15, unless "reasonable" concessions to the union program are made by city officials.

The meeting climaxed a day of arguments before the common council during which councilmen delayed a vote on the union's program until they could get a report from budget director David V. Addy on the total cost of putting the demands into effect.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1941.

First principle of international diplomacy: Never stick out your neck so far that you can't pull it back.

That ominous warning is again sounded, "Only 17 Shopping Days Until Christmas"—and there's no hint from Washington that the time will be extended.

Norway's Quisling is said to be annoyed because he wasn't invited to the Comintern conference—and Judas was also ignored after he had performed his dirty work.

That Dangerous Six-Mile Speedway

WHILE the good intentions of Prosecuting Attorney Lutz cannot be doubted, his recommendation that a part of Route 42, northeast of Mansfield, constructed for three-lane traffic, be restricted to two-lanes, seems more of an expedient than a solution of the problem involved.

This stretch of highway, which has been designated "the bloody six miles," because of frequent accidents and fatalities, has become one of Richland county's speedways—since removal of several curves—and, based on volume of traffic, should be a FOUR-LANE highway, similar to those already in use in many places to meet modern requirements.

It is obvious that excessive speed and reckless passing combine to make a three-lane highway extra hazardous, but it is also true that a two-lane or a four-lane highway cannot be made fool-proof—as has been demonstrated on the magnificent super-highway in Pennsylvania during the past year.

If something really practicable is contemplated in connection with reducing the hazards of "the bloody six miles" it would seem to necessarily involve widening this stretch of highway to four lanes, so that the present competition of speeders for right-of-way in the middle lane can be eliminated—but even that would probably not prevent suicidal drivers from killing themselves, and others.

Meanwhile, more drastic enforcement of reasonable speed limits and other traffic regulations is recommended—coupled with voluntary compliance with safe driving rules by sensible motorists.

Pay Increases for City Employes

FOLLOWING the general trend toward salary and wage increases, Mansfield city council has acted unanimously in approving raises in pay of 180 appointive employes of the city, which amounts to about $22,000 a year and brings the annual payroll of appointive city employes to approximately $344,000 for next year.

Members of the finance and salaries committees of council, as well as the other councilmen, seem to have given careful thought to the matter of apportioning increases to all appointive employes in as equitable a way as possible, within the limits of funds that can be made available for this purpose.

A look through the list of increases in various departments of city employment, as printed in yesterday's News-Journal, gives an idea of the scope and diversity of work involved in the operaton of a city of Mansfield's size and also reveals the importance of capable management of such a large enterprise.

In no instance does the salary or wage increase granted by council appear in excess of the reasonable earnings of persons qualified to perform their work in a satisfactory way, nor will the new scale be out of line with payment for similar service in other cities of comparable size.

A city has certain services which it is obligated to perform for its citizens and there is a natural desire that persons employed for these duties be paid on a basis commensurate with the value of their work in private employment. It is gratifying, therefore, that the finances of Mansfield are in such condition as to make possible the payroll increases that have been approved by council.

Now It's Basketball Time

MANSFIELD high school's Tygers, who closed a highly successful football season on Thanksgiving day, open another important sports season tomorrow night when Coach Vern Hoffman's basketball team meets Columbus South high school at Senior high gymnasium.

The undefeated football Tygers, who were tied only by such big teams as Massillon and Canton McKinley, were given the finest kind of support, financial and moral, by Mansfield's sport fans during the past season.

The same sort of support in basketball might prove somewhat embarrassing, since the 5,000 Mansfielders who made the trip to Massillon could not crowd into the high school gym to watch the basketball team perform.

But support comparable to the difference in the drawing power of the two games should be accorded the basketball team which opens the season with fine prospects. Mansfield will start a veteran team against Columbus South, a team that can be expected to win more games than it will lose this winter.

Those View-Obstructing Hats

NOT so much has been heard in recent years about women's hats obstructing view of the stage at theatrical and musical entertainments—possibly because the habit of removing hats became quite general a number of years ago, due to public insistence.

The more recent vogue of small hats presented no serious view-obstruction problem, but it now appears, according to comment by a Mansfield woman, that some hats have "view-blocking brims and long feathers" which prevent persons seated back of their wearers from seeing the stage.

"Ladies will please remove their hats" was a common request of earlier day theatrical, musical and motion picture performances—and reasonable consideration for others will result in a return to this practice without audible or visible suggestion.

Reverting for the moment to football parlance, the Detroit News fails to recall an instance in which a penalty was imposed for "too many men in motion" on political jobs.

Item: "The bank savings of the little people of the United States would pay the national debt"—but this had best be kept secret from the New Deal spendthrifts.

Before condemning Finland it would be only fair to consider what you would do if surrounded by armed bandits and told to throw up your hands.

Going the rounds again: "If we have to whip those Germans," said a Georgia cracker, "do you reckon them damn Yanks will help us?"

Troubles Increase for SPAB Head

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — Don Nelson's troubles, as head of SPAB, which means the national defense effort, multiply, but no one seems to be sure how to fix them. Most observers agree that one thing would help a lot — if he were given the power to hire and fire.

His own office seems to think it has the power to hire, but NOT to fire; and in organization troubles it frequently is more important to have the power to fire than the power to hire, assuming one cannot have both.

The ideal government, most students believe, would be a dictatorship if one considers only efficiency. That is why countries are generally driven to dictatorships in times of great stress, particularly in war.

There is no real difficulty about that in this picture. To all intents and purposes President Roosevelt IS a dictator. But in a big country it is not enough to have a dictator at the top. The dictator must be willing to allocate dictatorial powers to various subordinates, so that in their own fields they will be dictators too—subject always to instant revocation of their powers if the head man is not satisfied, or thinks another man on that job would be better.

That Mr. Roosevelt is unwilling to do. And right there is the key to half the troubles, if not three-quarters, in our national defense effort today. Washington is rife with stories of how Nelson has ordered a study made of some subject, intending to have the study submitted to him for action.

WEEKS go by and nothing happens. Busy as he is, the thing may not be in his mind. Suddenly he is reminded forcefully by events that this particular problem has not been solved. He checks up, and discovers that perhaps because a couple of chaps further down the line are unable to agree, nothing has been done. Sometimes the reason is not even as excusable as that. But he CANNOT FIRE THE MEN TO BLAME.

There is another difficulty, according to officials scattered through the organization, which does not lend itself as simply to remedy, assuming one could get power from on high to apply the remedy.

Let's take copper. Obviously non-defense consumption of copper must be curtailed. If it had been decided that not one ounce of copper could be used for anything not essential to national defense, enforcement would be simple. There might be evasions here and there, but these would be another sort of difficulty, not one to bother important SPAB executives. But the trouble is that the effort is being made to apply this curtailment with a little flexibility and common sense.

NOW that is fine, but at the same time it's a headache. Everybody and his brother thinks HIS case should be an exception. Sometimes the protestants are right. Sometimes they are not. But in virtually every case the individual wanting to use some copper comes down to Washington, or writes strong letters to his congressman. The result is a hearing in each case, to thresh out all the facts and see what can be done.

If there existed a trained personnel familiar with this sort of problem, it might not be so bad. But every man who knows enough to pass on such a case is virtually needed, both by the government and by his industry, for other purposes.

Dare to Remember!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

DEAR MARY MARGARET McBRIDE—

It's your birthday as I write this. And, by the time you see it printed, it will seem long overdue But I don't believe a calendar has a heart . . . or love, any seasons. And so I'm writing you, in gratitude and love, because you have the courage to remember this date—

WITH CABBAGE PUDDING AND CHARLOTTE RUSSE!

Of course there's more to the menu than that. There's fried chicken and string beans 'n' various hot breads. And, probably, scads of other things which you and I . . . and other ladies of our girth . . . should never touch. But daggone girth on a day like this! And here's to a gallant daughter who dares, through her tears, to remember the birthday dinners her mother gave her when she was a little girl.

Every Nov. 16th it was the same. The smell of the good farm food asimmering on the stove . . . the warm, near dearness of your mother, standing. And the same dishes steaming on the old table. Fried chicken . . . cabbage pudding . . . string beans . . . charlotte russe.

So now Mom's gone. And, like millions of us, you're trying to reach back through the years . . . trying to touch the dear, worn hands that moved so briskly above the mixing bowl, while a little girl watched . . . clutching at the table that was an anchor to her curious, timid young soul.

Mom's gone! All over America, that's going to be a knell to millions these holidays. Mom's gone! All over America, millions will cringe when they wake to that knowledge . . . hide their heads and hearts in smothering grief. But somewhere in New York City there's a little-girl-who-never-grew-up who'll take that day on the chin!

Tears?—yes, they'll be there—a briny flood on her heart. Loneliness, bitter as death, for the dear hands which have gone. But taller and clearer than any altar flame, Mary Margaret McBride will be remembering her mother.

REMEMBERING HER WITH PRIDE!

Wreaths above the door.
Flame in the hearth.
And, on the table.
FRIED CHICKEN . . . CABBAGE PUDDING . . . STRING BEANS . . . CHARLOTTE RUSSE.
"Sentimental," you say.
"Heroic!" says I.

HERE'S A DAUGHTER WHO DARES TO REMEMBER LOVE . . . DARES TO BOW, IN GRATITUDE, BEFORE GRIEF.

Every year, sitting alone or feasting with friends, Mary Margaret McBride dares to remember love, and the price she paid for it. Never, not once, has she regretted that price.

I'm thinking there's a great lesson in that. A lesson our fathers knew, in their grim desolation . . . a lesson we've almost forgotten in our coddling. The lesson that—LOSS IS A PART OF LIFE. CABBAGE PUDDING . . . FRIED CHICKEN . . . THEY ARE AS TRULY A PART OF LOVE AS A SONG BENEATH THE BALCONY . . . A WREATH AT THE GRAVE.

DARE TO REMEMBER GRIEF!

DARE TO GO ON—THOUGH THE WAY IS VEILED WITH TEARS.

Timely Editorial

Christmas Spelled Out.

What thinking person has not been exasperated by "Xmas" for "Christmas"? To have one of the most beautiful and significant words of the language mutilated by the mentally fatigued and by those afflicted with writer's cramps, is deplorable. However, up to now, no one knew what to do to erase the blight. Fortunately, Opie L. Shelton is both a sentimentalist and a man of action. He has launched single-handed a campaign to end the mutilation of the word "Christmas." He has won help now and his plea is being mailed to newspapers and commercial organizations throughout the nation. The appropriateness of a fully spelled Christmas is above argument. Mr. Shelton, a South Carolina idealist, deserves to win.

Every person, store, and church can aid the observance by spelling Christmas with nine letters. —Toledo Blade.

Jap Army Being Formed In U. S., Enlistments Gained By Threats

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Senator Tom Connally has not wanted to throw any monkey wrenches into the "peace" negotiations with Japan, so has kept quiet the fact that his foreign relations committee has some startling evidence on Japanese subversive activities.

Submitted by Senator Guy Gillette of Iowa, author of the bill for a probe of these operations, the evidence reveals that while Special Envoy Kurusu has been talking amity, agents of his government have been organizing a secret pro-Axis army in the United States and Hawaii.

According to Gillette, three organizations are active in these undercover operations—the Japanese Military Servicemen's league, the National Citizens league, and the Japanese Imperial Comradeship society.

Gillette claims to have proof that two of these organizations have a group of 7,200 adherents, chiefly in California and Hawaii. They are pledged to "die for Japan." Also he has evidence that all three organizations are carrying on activities hostile to our national defense and have raised considerable sums for the Japanese army and navy.

A recent FBI raid on the headquarters of two other Japanese organizations in Los Angeles produced records showing that large amounts of money had been sent to Tokyo for the military forces.

Gillette also has evidence that Japanese-Americans who refuse to join the fifth column units are told that bodily harm will be done to their relatives in Japan. One method used to get recruits for the secret army is to "register" men of military age. Recently the Japanese consul general in Honolulu sent a notice to men of Japanese descent ordering them to register "for deferment" under the Japanese draft law.

The order warned that anyone failing to register would be punished as a "violator of the (Imperial) conscription law."

Note: — Prominent Japanese-Americans, 100 per cent loyal to the United States, are fiercely opposing these subversive activities. Shuji Fugi, editor of a Pacific coast Japanese newspaper, urges "immediate action by the United States government to rout out organizations and propagandists seeking to promote the pro-Nazi elements among us, such as the Japanese Military Servicemen's league."

Lewis and the Devil.

ONE of John L. Lewis's greatest passions is dramatics. He loves to quote Shakespeare, Milton, other famous masters.

Declaiming before the United Mine Workers' policy committee during the captive mine negotiations, Lewis interlarded a blast at Eugene Grace of Bethlehem Steel with this excerpt from Milton's immortal Paradise Lost—

"Whence and what art thou, execrable shape, that durest, though grim and terrible, advance they miscreated front athwart my way to yonder gates? Through them I mean to pass, that be assured, without leave askt of thee."

The quotation is from Book 2, line 681, and thereafter. What Lewis didn't tell his listeners was that the "shape" is Death; the "gates" are those of Hell; and the speaker so enthusiastically quoted by John L. is—Satan.

Defense Hits Congress.

CONGRESS has had a first-hand dose of the brand of defense priority medicine which has gagged so many business firms. Also it has had a close-up of defense bungling.

Last summer, congress voted a new restaurant for the house office building. It was to open by November 1. However, due to an amazing blunder by the OPM Priorities Division, the lunchroom won't be ready until about January 1, two months behind time.

Reason for the delay is that a priorities official rejected an application for some essential equipment, thinking it was to be used for a restaurant in the New York state legislature! Here's what happened:

In September a New York contractor, hired to install sandwich grills, steam tables and other facilities in the new restaurant, applied to the OPM for a priority rating on the iron and steel needed for the job. Getting no reply for several weeks, he wrote again.

Finally, on October 20, he received a letter which caused him to blink. It stated in effect: "We regret to inform you that your application has been denied. We feel that the restaurant in the New York house of representatives will be able to get along with its present equipment."

The stunned contractor rushed down to Washington and took the matter up with David Lynn, architect of the Capitol. Lynn promptly contacted Priorities Chief Donald Nelson, who apologetically issued the needed priority order.

That's the way a lot of priorities are handled, only in this case congress heard about it.

Champagne 'em 'n Fool 'em.

THE house appropriations subcommittee investigating Latin America will not soon forget their meeting with Dr. Arnulfo Arias, deposed pro-Nazi president of Panama.

Arias, who was then still in the saddle, flabbergasted the visiting congressmen by throwing a champagne party at 10 o'clock in the morning. They attended, out of courtesy, to find the entire Panamanian chamber of deputies on hand. Forthright Representative Jack Houston of Kansas made himself right at home by thumping Arias on the back and demanding a cigaret.

"I'm an old hand a mooching cigarets from government heads," said Houston. "I got one from President Roosevelt just before leaving Washington."

After a few drinks, Arias became chummy.

"One of the great virtues of champagne, gentlemen," he beamed, "is that it takes people's minds off of problems and makes them happy. Happy people don't start revolutions. We have plenty of champagne in Panama, so we have no fears of a revolution."

Ten days later, Arias was ousted by a bloodless revolt against his pro-Nazi regime.

Merry-Go-Round.

SENATOR GERALD NYE, co-author of the isolationist-packed movie probe, would be given a taste of his own medicine if some of his North Dakota constituents had their way. State Senator Harry O'Brien, among others, is circulating a petition asking the senate to investigate Nye's isolationist operations and "connections with the Steuben society." . . . Up in the north woods of Wisconsin, where G-Man J. Edgar Hoover successfully solved the famous Ross kidnaping case in 1938, they say of him: "I hear tell this man Hoover was a second-rate president, but he sure makes a first-rate investigator." . . . Recently this column revealed that certain minor moguls of the Lend-Lease administration were taking themselves—and red tape—so seriously that they were delaying the shipment of vitally needed war supplies for weeks. We can now disclose that Lend-Lease Administrator Ed Stettinius is quietly cleaning up this situation. He has summoned a crack executive of the U. S. Steel corporation, Stettinius's former company, to reorganize the administrative set-up of LLA and also to shelve the obstructive would-be big shots.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—There are half a million people in New York who confine their reading strictly to the amusement pages of the newspapers. Consequently, a form of reporting has grown up to meet this situation that, with the exception of Hollywood and a few other metropolitan centers, would seem silly anywhere else.

It is a play on names, the reporters merely listing the names, without comment, of people seen at various cafes and meeting places. Every name means a paper bought. The following are excerpts from amusement sections of today's Manhattan press:

"CALLERS at the Stork Club: Carol Bruce, Jo Ann Sayers, Charles Butterworth, Amon Carter, Bradshaw Crandall, Nancy Carroll, Betty Cordon, Gertrude Niessen, Frank Buck, Roscoe Turner, Sidney Kingsley, Danny Kaye, Peter Arno, Liz Whitney, Mrs. Gloria Vanderbilt, Virginia Fields, Roland Young, James Montgomery Flagg, Paul Lukas, J. Edgar Hoover, Alexia Thompson.

"At Fefe's Monte Carlo: Lana Turner, Rosalind Russell, Joan Bennett, Walter Pidgeon, Una Merkel, Margot Grahame, Linda Darnell, Henry Fonda, Bruce Cabot, George Jessel, Ronald Colman.

"At El Morocco: Errol Flynn, Bruce Cabot, George Jessel, Vincent Youmans, Paul Flato, James Cromwell, John Jacob Astor, Sherman Fairchild, Woolworth Donahue, Jack Topping, Arthur Treacher.

"At the Olney Inn: Boris Karloff, Russell Crouse, Howard Lindsay.

"At Armandos: Rosemary Lane, Gil Stratton, Jack Dempsey, Hannah Williams, Hank Greenberg.

"At last night's premiere: Ronald Colman, Joan Bennett, Liz Whitney, Taylor Holmes, Russell Crouse, Paul Hartman, Grace Hartman, Jack Topping, Jake Webb, Errol Flynn, George S. Kaufman, Sidney Kingsley, Diana Barrymore, Sally Benson, Lillian Hellman, Theresa Helburn, Charles Armstrong, Ed Wynn, Mady Christians, Guthrie McClintic."

HUNDREDS of names go into the news every single day, and since names make news—in New York at least — it pays. I know an actor who made a name for himself in Hollywood and came to New York for a long-run hit on Broadway. Every day he buys all the papers, carefully reads every single line in the amusement sections, then tosses the papers away.

He knows what blond crooner was at Leon & Eddie's last night, but he couldn't tell you what Michigan did to Columbia or the situation at the captive mines. Occasionally he sees his own name there.

These mentions are carefully torn out, pencilled, and pasted into a book of clippings. Once he was listed as having been seen at three different places the same night. That was Victory with a capital V.

"Every time I'm out late I always find 'em in here."

A Farmer's Diary

The Reward

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

WHEN we wanted an open fire for boiling applebutter, I promised the two older boys a treat if they would saw logs on the slope above the road. The logs were there, piled, dry and ready since last spring. We have a one-man saw that is not too big for youngsters to use. The wind was cold, but they built a fire of brush close by and went to work. Before I started to the village, I heard the movement of the saw and noticed the blue column of smoke float eastward.

It was dark when I got back. Far ahead, when I turned onto the gravel road, I glimpsed the flickering fire of the young woodmen. When I stopped on the drive, two pairs of heavily shod feet came clattering and a duet of voices asked, "What'd you get us?"

I handed out three thick bars of sweet chocolate.

"Whoops—thank you Daddy—come up and look! We've cut seven pieces off." Then, whispering something to each other, they went back up to the fire.

When I had finished my evening meal and found that all was well around the barn, I stealthily moved along the lawn and across the road to climb the bank. I could see that the two small boys had replenished their fire so that it leaped and crackled. The air was pleasant for late November, the stars were bright and far down in the southwest a new moon was less than an hour high.

The two brothers, warmly dressed, with helmet caps, sat behind their fire, facing each other, nibbling chocolate and conversing. Their black and white cocker spaniel pup slept on an old coat—with one eye open. One flame leaped higher than the rest and sang a high, descending note.

"Lookit that!" I heard the six-year-old exclaim. "Sounds like it's talkin'. Maybe somebody's soul is goin' up in smoke—like happened over across the ocean on that mountain—you know the story."

His brother laughed. "Jove, you mean, on Mount Olympus. Are you scared—what're you lookin' at?"

"Somethings moving in the fire. My hair don't feel right. Let's go on down home."

"Nothin's goin' to happen," said the other. "If we wait long enough Daddy'll be bound to come up."

"Well, if he don't come pretty soon we'd better go—Mom'll get worried."

I did not throw a stone nor break a single twig, only coughed and scuffed my heels against the bank as though struggling for a foothold. The puppy yelped.

"There's Daddy now," said both at once, relievedly.

We three—and the pup—stayed there by the fire until the moon went down.

M'GREGOR CHARGES THIRD OF U. S. HOUSING UNITS VACANT

WASHINGTON—Rep. J. Harry McGregor, (R., O.) charged yesterday that almost one-third of the defense housing projects built with government funds are vacant, after he had forced full consideration of the administration's bill for $300,000,000 for defense housing.

The bill was brought into the house under suspension of the rules, allowing 40 minutes debate and no amendments but McGregor defeated the suspension and the bill must go back to the rules committee. There it will be brought out under an open rule permitting full debate and consideration of amendments.

To force suspension of the rules requires a two-thirds majority but after McGregor's attack, the vote was 83 for suspension and 70 opposed.

"Do you want to know about 10 government agencies building houses in competition with each other?" McGregor asked the house. "How the agencies got key men away from each other by offering higher salaries? About one project in which after completion the builders could find no one to turn over the keys to for two or three days?"

The first cows in the United States were brought by the settlers at Jamestown.

PROVING GROUND

Special Incline Built To Test Military Vehicles.

DETROIT—(INS)—For the testing of military vehicles at the General Motors proving grounds near Milford, Mich., a 60 degree concrete incline has been built.

Believed to be one of the steepest testing hills in the world, the paved hill route is too steep for anyone to climb in ordinary shoes.

Although it is considered steeper than any terrain which may be encountered by army trucks and tanks the grade already has proved beneficial in showing just what the machines will do under vigorous tests.

Another 45 degree roadway, a 70 degree unpaved hillside and a large mudhole test the versatility of new army mechanized units.

EXPLAIN NEED FOR WORKERS IN DEFENSE JOBS

Westinghouse Representatives and State Officials Call Meeting of Trainees.

Explanation of the need for defense workers will be given Mansfield workers Saturday at 9 a. m. in Mansfield Senior high school auditorium by representatives of the Westinghouse Electrical and Manufacturing company, the Ohio State employment service and the Mansfield schools.

Announced by V. H. Oberlander, supervisor of National defense training in the Mansfield area, the meeting will be open to graduates of the vocational courses at Senior high school since 1930 and other men between the ages of 18 and 60 years.

Westinghouse representatives, from both the Canton and Mansfield plants, will explain defense labor shortage problems confronting them while state employment service representatives will present a state-wide picture of the defense labor conditions.

The meeting follows a session here last week of Westinghouse men with school and employment service men aimed at providing material from which Westinghouse can draw to fill its paid training schools in Canton and eventually man a new naval ordnance plant there.

It was explained that Stark county, Mansfield and Wooster were the only areas from which Canton could draw 2,000 machine operators necessary to put the ordnance plant in full operation.

Oberlander has promised to cull lists of Mansfield graduates in an effort to provide workers qualified to attend the paid training schools immediately.

Others will be given primary training in the Mansfield machine shops, both at the high school and at the Charles Mill NYA resident center, which will qualify them for enrollment in the Canton advanced schools.

Although no charge is made for primary training, Oberlander said that it will not be until accepted for training in Canton that trainees will be paid. In Canton they will receive approximately $18 a week.

ADULT EDUCATION GROUP HEARS TALK

Mrs. R. G. Williams Presents Final Discussion of "Character Development for National Defense" at Y. W. C.A.

FINAL MEETING of the Parent-Teacher adult education group was held Wednesday afternoon at the Y. W. C. A. with 15 members in attendance. In summing up her series of discussions based on "Character Development for National Defense," Mrs. R. G. Williams, member of the Ohio P. T. A. Congress, said that gaining understanding is the most important factor.

"In the world today," she stated, "we have to put the accent on making a living instead of making a life. Through reports on character building agencies we find that between five and six thousand children avail themselves of such agencies as the Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and several clubs within the schools which have a definite program for building character."

Reports were given regarding housing, extra-curricular agencies, delinquency, the domestic relations court and the welfare agencies in Mansfield. It was found that, as a whole, housing conditions in this city are better than in many cites. Extra-curricular interests include the above-named organizations for boys and girls and the clubs within the schools. Report on the domestic relations court revealed that there is a definite need in Mansfield for a trained person to guide couples in solving their problems before they reach the divorce stage. Among the welfare agencies is Friendly House, which assists approximately 1,500 persons of all ages. The Y. M. C. A. reported that nearly 9,000 children come and go there during a year.

Mrs. P. O. Ackerman, council chairman for parent-education, informed the group that the council intends to continue this adult education program and encouraged each Parent-Teacher unit to organize a group in its school.

Mistletoe May Mean Marriage In 1941

You can always get someone to help you hang mistletoe . . . by paying for the service.

Mistletoe changes from parasite to paradise about this time every year. Already from the mistletoe state of Oklahoma, from Texas and from New Mexico, most of the American mistletoe is coming from treetop to your chandelier. From the west coast mistletoe travels packed in ice like fragile flowers. No priorities, tent caterpillars nor killing frost finished the crop off short. It's a good thing, because forecast is this will be the most marrying Christmas of them all. One diamond maker put out more than 50,000 engagement rings for the Yuletide season, rings like the streamlined square-shape on the third finger under the mistletoe pictured here.

Mother, This Home-Mixed Cough Relief Is Wonderful

Saves Real Money. No Cooking. Quick Results.

To get the most surprising relief from coughs due to colds, you can easily prepare a medicine, right in your own kitchen. It's very easy—a child could do it—needs no cooking, and tastes so good that children take it willingly. But you'll say it beats them all for quick results.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, and pour it into a pint bottle. Then add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of really splendid cough syrup—about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and lasts a family a long time.

And for real, quick relief, it can't be beaten. It acts in three ways—loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for prompt action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Pitfalls of Love

(A sequel to Marriage Meddlers)
By ADELE GARRISON

"I'm sure it is," she answered. "There was only one hole, and it didn't come out that way, although he bled copiously. But I have been on the watch for it, and I'm sure it's still in there."

"Then we'll have to probe," the surgeon said, and he gave a meaning look at my father.

"Will you have your daughter take Mrs. Underwood away?" he said. "I need only the nurse here, but if you wish to stay it is all right with me."

"I prefer to stay," my father said. Then he looked at me.

"Margaret," he said, and nodded his head toward Lillian, who had looked up in piteous, silent protest at the surgeon's dictum of banishment.

I gave him an answering acquiescent nod and, walking to Lillian's side, put my arms around her.

Takes Lillian Away.

"Come dear girl!" I adjured her. "You know they'll let you come back the minute it's best."

Harry opened his eyes and looked into her pleading ones.

"Go with Madge, Sweet," he whispered. "I'd rather you did."

I knew he was lying gallantly, and that Lillian also knew. But she was schooled to recognize necessity and to obey medical orders, so she made no protest, but kissed him quickly, then turned to me and leaned on me heavily as we went down the hall to her own room.

Once inside she turned to me blindly, and I swept her into my arms, holding her tightly until the trembling of her muscles ceased. She did not weep or speak, and I knew that she was controlling her nerves with an iron will; knew that the only help I could give her was the strength of my arms.

Finally she drew away and stood erect, looking at me with a brave but wan attempt at a smile.

"I am all right now, she said. "Thank you so much."

Fears For Her Husband.

"Let's leave that for another time," I answered with intentional flippancy, for I wanted above all things to minimize the fear which I knew was in her heart for her husband.

"Just now, suppose you sit down and let me tell you about the wigging Father gave me a few minutes ago," I said.

But my ruse fell flat. She looked at me with tortured eyes, and spoke with constraint.

"The Authority on Authorities"

WHY JUST PLOD ALONG?

IT IS painful to an habitual planner to watch a declarer who just plods along, using each device he sees to save a trick or win one, but with no complete plan for a deal. Any single move may seem sound enough of itself, but unless it is considered in its relationship to the hand as a whole, it can be worse than futile. Brief consideration of some alternate move might show that it is better to abandon a play which, in the abstract, would be rated as good bridge.

Yes indeed, that's the way this hand was bid at one table of the recent Western States championships in St. Louis. The player who jumped to that slam on his second turn failed to make it, but several others did, some of them not having bid it.

West led his spade 5 to avoid leading away from his honors in the other suits South took that and another spade trick, the latter in the dummy. Next he saw one sure losing club in his hand, unless he could get rid of it. The moment he saw a way to do that, he led the heart K and discarded his club 2. West winning with the A, A heart repeat later made possible the diamond finesse had to be lost, so the contract was down.

At other tables, South planned and saw he could afford to lose a diamond finesse, then discard two of the dummy's clubs on that suit, after dropping trumps. That would enable him to ruff out South's two smaller clubs in the dummy and so make all tricks except the one lost in diamonds. That's the way it worked.

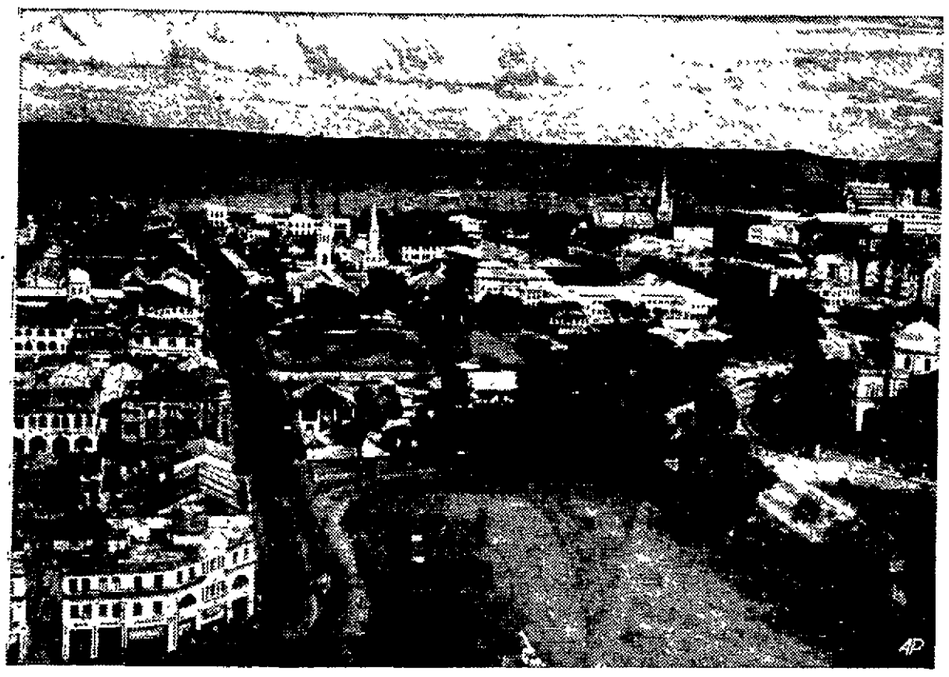
This Is SINGAPORE

(AP Feature Service)

FAR EASTERN anchor of Britain's "lifeline of empire" is Singapore. At the tunnel point of the Strait of Malacca, it gives dominance over sea routes from India to China. Giant fortress and huge base for warships, Singapore is major trump for America and Britain as war clouds roll over Orient. These pictures of life there today were taken by Deane Dickason, American author-lecturer.



THIS IS THE CITY: In background is the great harbor. Road at left is Bras Basah, at far end of which is Raffles hotel. High spire at right center is St. Andrew's Cathedral and black dome at extreme right is Supreme Court building.

THESE ARE THE WARRIORS: Swarthy Punjabi sepoys here practice loading and firing 40-mm Beaufors, an automatic gun taking two-pound shells. Troops are under intensive training.

THIS IS THE BOSS: Sir Shenton Thomas is governor, commander-in-chief of Straits Settlements, commissioner of Federated Malay States.

THESE THE PEOPLE: Despite constant war tension the British of Singapore still find time for the social amenities. Here a throng gathers at the Sea View hotel where concert is given each Sunday.

HERE THE WEALTH: Three-fourths of tin used in U. S. comes from near Singapore. Chinese coolie hoes ore in trough in wash-out process.

THIS IS REFUGE: Make-shift evacuee villages have been built inland from Singapore to receive coastal Malays should Singapore island be attacked. Built of wood and fiber, houses are spaced to prevent spread of fire.

'FRESH EGG' LAW TO BE STUDIED

Richland Dealers, Poultrymen To Hear Explanation at Meeting Monday.

The new "fresh egg" law as it affects grocers and farmers will be outlined by two Ohio poultry authorities at a meeting at 8 p. m. Monday in the First Methodist church, Mansfield.

More than 200 egg dealers and farmers who sell eggs to stores have been invited to attend the discussion session. Speakers will be C. M. Ferguson, extension poultryman at Ohio State university, and Dale Hilbish, representing the Ohio division of markets.

The meeting will be sponsored jointly by th county extension department and the Independent Grocers' Institute. There will be demonstrations of grading and candling eggs.

The new law requires egg dealers to label eggs as "fresh" or "storage eggs" and prohibits the advertising of fresh eggs unless they meet the state requirements.

SERGEANT LOSES TO LINK TRAINER

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—(U.P.)—The sergeant who did clerical work around the offices was looking for a ride home in a training plane. He was loitering around the hangars waiting for a chance to "hitch" a ride when he heard Lieut. R. A. Sedgwick reserve a "Link trainer" for a cross-country flight to Kansas City.

Quickly the sergeant rushed to his quarters and packed a bag. In a moment he was back at the hangar. Then he learned about a Link trainer.

It is merely a cockpit mounted on a pedestal and never leaves the ground. It is used for practice in blind navigation.

LION HUNTER BAGS OVER 500

BIG MESA, Ariz.—(U.P.)—Giles Goswick of the division of predatory control, U. S. Fish and Wild Life Survey, has killed or captured more than 500 mountain lions in his time.

His job is to take care of the "killers" on the ranges of Arizona. These "cats" sometimes cost a rancher $500 a week in calves, yearlings, and colts.

Goswick has a pack of 11 hounds that sometimes chase a lion for miles through dry mountain country in northern Arizona. Once the animal is treed, Goswick goes into action with either a rifle or a rope. Captured lions are sold to zoos.

Goswick always runs the last half mile of a pursuit, "just to see if there might be something a little different about this lion."

Scoutmasters and Wives to Dine on Venison Tonight

Approximately 150 Scoutmasters and their wives will be feasted, funned and fooled tonight at the 12th annual Scout Widows party in the Elks home, an affair which has grown from a small stag party and venison dinner to a banquet celebration.

Called by Scout executive Floyd Dent "The Gridiron Banquet of Scouting," the dinner is held every year in the Elks home to honor and rib old and new Scoutmasters. This year, new Scoutmasters will each be given a rabbit's foot as a memento of the occasion.

Charles Kimmel, Johnny Appleseed Area commissioner, started the Scout Widows party in 1929 when he invited a few friends to dine on a deer he had shot.

The next year the performance was repeated, with the addition of a few more guests, who got together and kidded one another after the fashion of the newsmen at the annual Press club banquet in Washington.

Now the party has become an institution, with the men bringing their wives and friends, and furnishing the venison, while charging a small sum to offset the cost of preparation and serving the dinner.

BRAZIL READIES RECIFE AREA TO WAR PITCH

U. S. Warships Patrol Coast With Guns Ready; Site Offers Strong Defense.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The Brazilian port of Recife figures in hemisphere defense, in which the role of Brazil becomes increasingly larger. E. M. Castro tells about it in this story for Wide World and The News-Journal, written during a 3,000-mile trip along the Brazilian coast.

By E. M. CASTRO

RECIFE, Brazil—(Correspondence of Wide World)—The Brazilian republic is preparing this military region, the nearest area on all the vast continent of South America to the European theater of war, for any eventuality.

Recife itself, an historic and beautiful city, has become one barb in a defensive arrow pointed eastward against any attempt at military conquest in this part of the western world.

The implication is broad: The defenses, under the collaborative agreement among the North and South American republics, are part of the hemisphere military establishment.

Warships of the United States navy patrol the waters off these coasts. They are blacked out at night, guns ready for action.

One of the most important phases of continental defense is the maintenance of open sea lanes with North America.

Disposition and numbers of the forces in this area are a closely guarded secret While I was fortunate in being allowed to visit many of the various military centers, newsmen are allowed to announce only that the greatest troop concentrations are here and in Natal, at the point of South America's projecting "nose."

The point of the arrow of which Recife is a barb is Natal, easternmost point of Brazil and 1600 miles further east than New York, and nearest to Vichy-controlled Dakar in Africa. Another barb of the arrow is Belem, at the vast mouth of the Amazon river, to the north.

Recife is becoming one of the best-armed regions of the nation. Today active effectives total approximately 40,000 men. They are responsible for the defense of an area of 370,000 square miles, with a population of 8,700,000 inhabitants.

They also are responsible for the defense of the region generally regarded as the key to continental defense.

This area includes the states of Penambuco, Alagoas, Paraiba, Rio Grande Do Norte, Ceara, Pauhy and Maranhao

Under the Havana agreement, Brazil would receive the naval aid of all other western hemisphere nations in case of external aggression.

Recife would lend itself admirably for use as a defense naval base in case of such aggression, and port improvements with this emergency in mind now are under way.

The harbor of Recife, largely man-made, is the finest of the entire northeast coastal region

Sees Tax Limit

United States Senator Walter F. George (D) of Georgia declares that the United States is approaching the limit of taxation and that the titanic defense debt, which may reach $150,000,000,000 must be spread over two or three generations. George, chairman of the senate finance committee, thus puts a brake on Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau's proposal for tax increases totalling nearly $4,000,000,000. .

GEN. JOHNSON: Faces Murder Count In Mercy Killing

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON — Some time ago, news reports were to the effect that the America First committee intended to start a new political party advocating a no-war policy. When this writer joined that committee he understood, as had been frequently announced, that its purposes were not those of partisan politics. The very basis of its activities was supposed to be argument in the best American and democratic sense against any unnecessary involvement in over-seas war and both unnecessary and unprecedented delegations of constitutional power from the legislature to the single person of the president.

Johnson

The former standing was designed to preserve the economic and fiscal structure of the United States against bankruptcy. The latter was intended to preserve the political system against the universal curse of totalitarianism and especially of Fascism.

From these ideas, standards and positions, this column has not wavered one hair's breadth. The trend within the America First committee, however, has been constantly away from them, or at least toward a distinctly political movement. There naturally gravitated in the direction of that committee a curious hodge-podge of Communists, Pacifists and expondents of various other "isms" too nimerous to mention.

The words of some of its principal speakers began to take on a tone of religious or racial intolerance in which this writer can have no part.

Nevertheless, having nailed a banner to that masthead, it seemed a part of timid cowardice to resign or otherwise notwithstanding that this writer felt that it was continually departing from him and not he from it.

When the news reports referred to above were published, this columnist felt it a duty to warn that, if any political aspect should be given to this movement, he would feel duty bound to split with it, regardless of the continued presence of some very old and well beloved friends, like General Wood, whose patriotic motives will ever remain above reproach.

Now the meeting at which this policy was expected to be decided upon has taken place. It is some comfort to know that the idea of starting a third party on this issue has been abandoned. But the intention has been announced to use the committee to oppose candidates in the mid-term election for both the house and the senate who have voted against the original principles of the committee.

This seems hardly less reprehensible than the third party threat.

When Mr. Wendell Willkie, from his highly dubious and certainly expedient and temporary position as Republican "leader," made a similar threat against all who did not vote for the extension of presidential powers and indiscrimmate involvement all over the earth's surface and without regard to costs in billions, this column regarded it as singularly arrogant and offensive almost to the point of political obscenity, and frankly said so. It can't see much difference in this second and similar case.

It is too far ahead for anybody to take a position which would bind him, at all events, in the lightning-like changes of the international situation. Whether you approve it or not, every step that is taken in further involvement puts American soldiers and sailors at peril and leaves in the minds of a veteran soldier, at least, no choice but to try to help support and protect them.

For example, this column has never been able to justify our involvement in Eastern Asia with Japan for the protection of the British empire. But since we are involved, it must in all candor and sincerity speak only in loyalty and admiration of the president's conduct, his statesmanship, and naval and military strategy in supporting our people there to meet the dangers into which they have been thrust.

PICKET LINES ESTABLISHED AT RAVENNA PLANT

Union Claims Strike Success, Company Says Men Report For Work Anyhow.

(By United Press)

BULLETIN

RAVENNA — (AP)—AFL construction workers passed through picket lines of striking production employes—including AFL switchmen and machinists—to go to work today at the Ravenna shell-loading plant.

RAVENNA — Picket lines were established today at the main entrances of the $57,000,000 government shell loading plant in a strike called by four unions.

C. S. Culver, national secretary of the Arsenal Workers of America, claimed the strike a success despite assertions by army officers and management spokesmen that thus far it had been ineffective.

"Our men aren't going in there," Culver said, "and even those who haven't joined the union aren't going in either."

The Atlas Powder company, operators of the arsenal, said that 96 per cent of the 1,500 transportation and maintenance men reported for work despite the picket lines.

Culver claimed that some members of the Machinists union (AFL), working for the Hunkin-Conkey Construction company on the arsenal project, had joined the strike in sympathy and were marching on the picket lines. It was estimated that there were about 150 men picketing at gates to the plant.

Walker said that he and other union officers would meet with company officials and Federal Conciliator Dan F. Hurley in Cleveland today in an attempt to settle the strike.

The arsenal workers, the Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen, another independent union, and the Switchmen and the Machinists' unions, both AFL, called the strike to force the company to sign contracts with them covering wages and hours.

The army public relations office and officials of the Atlas Powder company, operators of the plant, said less sthan 10 percent of the men responded to the strike order and that operations on two shell loading lines, already established, were affected only slightly.

None of the 11,000 to 12,000 construction workers, all AFL members and employed by the Hunkin-Conkey Construction company to complete the building of the arsenal and adjoining ordnance depot, had thus far joined the walkout. It was understood that no effort would be made to persuade them to strike.

SUN COMES OUT IN WINDY CITY

Marshall Field Newspaper Raps Hitler In First Edition Today.

(By United Press)

CHICAGO, Ill. — The Chicago Sun, a new newspaper, was born today with an initial press run of 750,000 copies.

Backed by Marshall Field, III, grandson of the founder of the famous Chicago mercantile dynasty, it entered the morning field monopolized for two years by the Chicago Tribune, which is published by Col. Robert R. McCormick, of another famous Chicago family.

The Sun stated its editorial policy in an editorial headed, "The Sun, Its Credo" It said that it believed the best interests of America "can best be served by the complete defeat of Adolf Hitler and everything he stands for."

The Tribune's editorial policy is strongly isolationist. It is also an opponent of President Roosevelt's domestic policies. The Sun is expected to be as strongly pro-New Deal.

Field, who also is publisher of PM, New York City afternoon daily, pressed a switch at midnight that started the press run on the first of the paper's three editions. It is using the mechanical equipment of the Chicago Daily News, an afternoon newspaper. More than 1,000 persons were waiting outside the building to grab the first copies. Its circulation men reported that demand was heavy.

CHILD CHRISTENS FIRST PLANE AT NEW OHIO FACTORY TODAY

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Ten months ago power shovels began excavating a tract of frozen land west of Port Columbus.

Today, 9-year-old Marilyn Knapp, daughter of a lathe operator, was assigned to break a bottle of champagne on the nose of the first warplane built in the 26-acre Curtiss-Wright factory erected on the site.

Flown here for the dedication ceremonies at the $14,000,000 plant, a navy "Helldiver," powerful new dive bomber on which production will start here in May, faced the locally-constructed observation plane, "Seagull No. 1," at the opposite side of the speakers' platform.

The public was barred from the factory, but 1,000 invited guests were permitted a tour of inspection following the dedication program.

Dignitaries present included Rear Admiral John H. Towers, head of the navy bureau of aeronautics; Artemus L. Gates, assistant secretary of the navy for air; Col. Philip Schneeberger, head of the industrial planning section, army air corps; and George Armsby, president of Curtiss-Wright.

Forest H. Knapp, father of little Marilyn, is one of the 3,700 workers currently employed at the plant. He entered Curtiss-Wright's employ when the company trained workers in converted cattle barns at the state fairgrounds.

Workers are being added at the rate of 600 a month and peak production—a guarded secret—will be reached next spring. About 13,000 will be employed then.

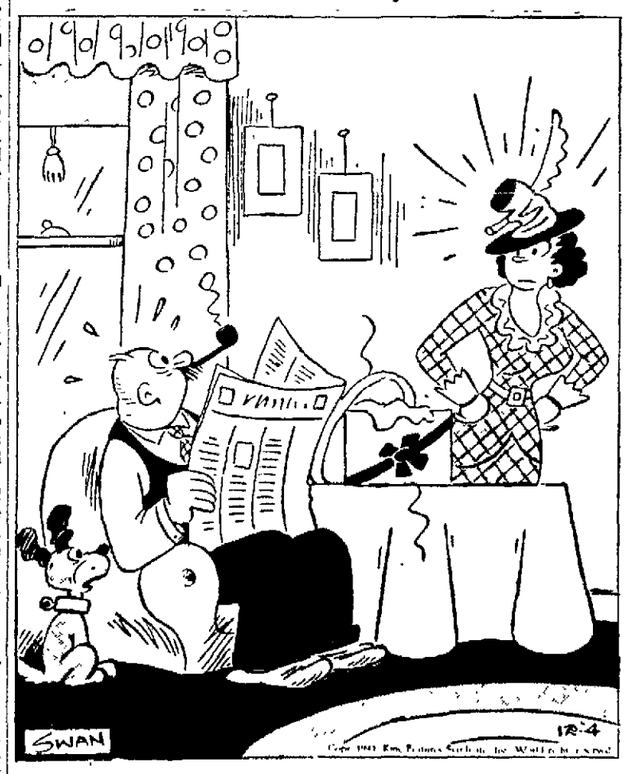
DENIES CHARGE

Bucyrus Patrolman Fights Order of Dismissal.

BUCYRUS—Service-Safety Director Carl Jacobs yesterday ordered the dismissal of Anton Spaeth, identification officer of the Bucyrus police department, on grounds of alleged "gross immorality." Spaeth immediately filed an appeal with the civil service commission denying the charge and asking reinstatement.

Police Chief Arthur Stuckert suspended Spaeth for a two-week period without pay on Nov. 26 after receiving orders from Jacobs. Spaeth has been a member of the police force for approximately 15 years.

Laff-a-Day



"Did you buy it like that or did something happen to it?"

Hunters have been known to bag the strangest things but Detective Lee Remy tops them all, fellow-policemen believe. Out hunting with Lieut Bruce Friday, Remy returned home with a rabbit, a chicken and a bushel of potatoes. The rabbit he had shot but the chicken and potatoes were purchased from a farmer whom the policemen met while hunting.

Finally answering Mark Twain's challenge that "everybody talks about the weather but nobody does anything about it," the News-Journal editorial staff decided to brighten up its daily forecasts last week by predicting the likely effect of the weather on readers. The "What goes on here?" response to this change found an echo in the column of Eleanor Clarage who writes for one of the Cleveland papers. She saw the first forecast and decided it must be a typographical error. Seeing another, she apologized and added "The Man's really funny." Thank you, Eleanor; we think you're nice, too.

Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton received a wage increase yesterday along with 180 other city employes but not so large as many people believe. Crafton's salary for 1942 was reported yesterday as $3,600 but should have read $3,060. Mrs. Crafton and a host of insurance salesmen descended on Crafton early today asking how he intended to spend the extra money. Crafton patiently explained that the ciphers had been twisted.

Foltz was promoted to the rank of sergeant and will receive more instruction in operational flying before going into actual service in Great Britain or elsewhere in the war zones.

Going back to the days when they were bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. Pittenger "treated" every one at the party with candy and cigars.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Pittenger have lived their entire lives in northern Richland county. They were married Dec. 3, 1891, in Franklin township north of Mansfield. She was Sarah Emma Sheets before her marriage. They have one son, C. J. Pittenger, of near Shelby.

SISTER SLAYS BROTHER IN STATE ASYLUM

Fires Four Times as Inmate Talks With Mother, Uses Sawed-Off Shotgun.

(By United Press)

SMITHTOWN, N. Y. — Mrs. Edith Reichert, 28, a tiny, soft-voiced housewife, faced a murder trial today for putting her insane brother, George Horne, "out of his misery" with a rifle she smuggled into the Kings Park State hospital, but prosecutors were not expected to ask the death penalty.

Entirely composed, she was arraigned here before Justice of the Peace Roy O. Bradley last night.

"I would like to have a postponement for counsel," she said.

The request was granted, and the hearing continued until Saturday.

Mrs. Edith Horne, 55, the mother of killer and victim, who saw her daughter calmly raise the rifle and shoot until her son fell, blood streaming from two wounds in his neck, was released. District Attorney Fred J. Munder of Suffolk county said there was "no evidence she had previous knowledge of the murder plan."

Mrs. Reichert and Mrs. Horne called at the hospital to see Horne, 26, yesterday. A former runner for a New York bond house, he had been there since Sept., 1940, and before that had been in another mental institution two years.

Horne had dementia praecox and it was almost impossible to communicate with him. Hospital records analyzed his case as hopeless.

An attendant, Ferdinand Bunce, led Horne to the visitors' room and closed the door, leaving him alone with his mother and sister.

This is what happened next, according to Mrs. Reichert:

Mrs. Horne was trying to talk to her demented son. Mrs. Reichert, who had a sawed-off, automatic .22 caliber rifle under her coat, pulled it out, and, aiming at her brother, pulled the trigger. The gun snapped. She extracted the defective cartridge, cocked the rifle and fired four times, point-blank, at his throat. Two bullets struck him, two went wild.

When Bunce, having heard the shot, ran into the room, she was standing, looking at the body, with the gun in her hands. Wordlessly, she handed it to him.

She told Munder that she bought the rifle a month ago and had the barrel sawed off, expressly to kill her brother. She told her mother she needed it for defense work.

"I didn't want to see him suffer," she explained with icy calm.

Sheriff Calls Gambling Laws Farce In Ohio

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Asserting that Ohio gambling laws are a farce, Lucas County Sheriff Charles L. Hennessey today urged that they be strengthened or that gambling be legalized.

Hennessey, in Columbus for the 11th annual convention of the Buckeye Sheriffs association, said that gamblers are arrested, fined a small sum and then go out and start all over again.

He also declared that a major crime or a traffic problem would receive more attention from his office than gambling because he regarded these two matters as more important, placing the traffic problem foremost.

William McElroy, Newark, succeeded Sheriff William S. Souter, Sandusky, as president of the association. Other officers are: Sheriff Hennessey and Joseph Sweeney, Cleveland, vice presidents; W. J. Wiggerincloh, Cincinnati, treasurer; Opha Moore, Columbus, secretary; and Clair Butts, New Lexington, Niles Young, Springfield, John McIntosh, New Philadelphia, and Alfred French, Bucyrus, trustees.

Santa and the WHITE ROSE

by Sigrid Arne

THE STORY SO FAR: Santa has left two infants as gifts: a boy in a peasant's cottage in King Harald's land, and a girl in the castle of the next kingdom. The infants are two halves of a white rose.

CHAPTER FOUR

HOW THE BABIES WERE FOUND

NOW I must tell you what happened to the two babies that were really the two halves of a white rose.

Remember, Santa left the boy baby in the home of a young peasant and his wife. The young couple were sitting in the garden and talking at the time. That very night they had been wishing for a son. That very day the young wife had left a gift for the fairies in the garden.

She told her husband, "You know the pink honey-suckle that grows over the wall? That's where I left the gift."

"It is a good spot," he said, "what did you leave?"

She said, "You remember the piece of silk lace on my wedding dress? I gave that to the fairies. It is the finest thing I have."

"Let's see if it's gone," said the young husband, springing to his feet. He took his wife by the hand and they tip-toed through the moonlit garden to the stone wall where the pink honeysuckle grew. The lace was gone!

The wife clapped her hands and jumped up and down in excitement. "Oh," she cried, "Let's hurry to the house. Maybe he is here already."

So they ran and tumbled to the house. And there lay the little baby boy in the crib.

* * *

The young wife bent down to pick him up, but she saw the white eagle's feather in his tiny hands.

"Oh, what is that?" she asked

The young husband looked closer and then smiled, "Why, the fairies have left him a gift."

The young husband took the eagle's feather carefully as his wife picked up the sleeping boy. Then they both looked for a very safe place to keep the feather which they thought the fairies had left

"See this stone in the wall right under the window — the blue one?" said the young husband. "I'll chip that out We can place the feather behind it, and then put the stone back in place"

And that's what they did.

Now I must tell you about the girl baby which was placed in the castle in the next kingdom

The King and Queen who lived there were middle-aged. For many years the Queen had wished for a daughter. She had placed hundreds of gifts in the garden for the fairies but her wish had never been granted.

The night when Santa visited the castle she was sitting in the rose garden with the King listening to three men play their violins. Suddenly she saw a falling star in the heavens, and she whispered to herself, "Oh, I wish for a daughter," Then she said to the King, "Excuse me, sire, I am going to my room for a shawl."

She hurried up the great stone stairs to her room and there in the moonlight, on her bed, lay the baby girl. The Queen was so excited she called out of her window and the King came bounding upstairs, two at a time."

They were so surprised they sat on the edge of the bed several minutes before the Queen picked up the child. Then she saw the flashing opal Santa had put in the baby's hand.

WHAT WAS THE SCORE, PASTOR?

Uses Sermon to Illustrate Sermon, Forgets Final Tally.

DUBUQUE, Ia.—(AP)—Dr. Max Strang of the First Congregational church, driving home a point in a sermon, related how the memory of a dead coach inspired the Lubbock (Tex.) high school football team.

The sermon mounted toward a stirring climax with Lubbock trailing Waco, 7 to 6, at the half, but the minister forgot to give the final score.

Within an hour more than 50 parishioners telephoned Dr. Strang to learn how the game came out. (Lubbock won, 13 to 7).

APPROVE BUDGET

County School Board Sends Finance Report To State.

The Richland county board of education's budget, calling for the expenditure of $8,000 in 1942, an increase of $500 over this year, had been approved today and sent to the state education department.

Supt Boyd Robinson said the increase represented a pay increase for H. J. Sir Louis, county school attendance officer, and minor increases in the cost of supplies.

The county board of education will receive $300 for its expenses next year. Other items included in the budget are traveling expenses for the county superintendent and the attendance officer, salary of the office secretary, Miss Margaret Oswalt; purchase of diplomas, office supplies, and postage.

Each of the county's rural and village school districts has its own budget, reducing the size of the county board's budget.

GALION YOUTH DIES FOLLOWING LONG ILLNESS

Gordon Ritz Had Continued Studies, Hobbies at Home Despite Sickness.

GALION — Suffering with a heart ailment since 1936, W. Gordon Ritz, 18, died at 8 p. m. yesterday at his home, 642 South Market street.

Last summer when the Junior Chamber of Commerce sponsored a Model Airplane contest east of Galion, his plane won him first prize in Crawford county, by making the longest flight of the day.

The body was taken to the Whittridge mortuary where funeral arrangements were being completed today.

Santa and the WHITE ROSE

by Sigrid Arne

THE STORY SO FAR: Santa has left two infants as gifts: a boy in a peasant's cottage in King Harald's land, and a girl in the castle of the next kingdom. The infants are two halves of a white rose.

CHAPTER FOUR

HOW THE BABIES WERE FOUND

NOW I must tell you what happened to the two babies that were really the two halves of a white rose.

Remember, Santa left the boy baby in the home of a young peasant and his wife. The young couple were sitting in the garden and talking at the time. That very night they had been wishing for a son. That very day the young wife had left a gift for the fairies in the garden.

She told her husband, "You know the pink honey-suckle that grows over the wall? That's where I left the gift."

"It is a good spot," he said, "what did you leave?"

She said, "You remember the piece of silk lace on my wedding dress? I gave that to the fairies. It is the finest thing I have."

"Let's see if it's gone," said the young husband, springing to his feet. He took his wife by the hand and they tip-toed through the moonlit garden to the stone wall where the pink honeysuckle grew. The lace was gone!

The wife clapped her hands and jumped up and down in excitement. "Oh," she cried, "Let's hurry to the house. Maybe he is here already."

So they ran and tumbled to the house. And there lay the little baby boy in the crib.

* * *

The young wife bent down to pick him up, but she saw the white eagle's feather in his tiny hands.

"Oh, what is that?" she asked.

The young husband looked closer and then smiled, "Why, the fairies have left him a gift."

The young husband took the eagle's feather carefully as his wife picked up the sleeping boy. Then they both looked for a very safe place to keep the feather which they thought the fairies had left.

"See this stone in the wall right under the window — the blue one?" said the young husband. "I'll chip that out. We can place the feather behind it, and then put the stone back in place."

And that's what they did.

Now I must tell you about the girl baby which was placed in the castle in the next kingdom.

The King and Queen who lived there were middle-aged. For many years the Queen had wished for a daughter. She had placed hundreds of gifts in the garden for the fairies but her wish had never been granted.

The night when Santa visited the castle she was sitting in the rose garden with the King listening to three men play their violins. Suddenly she saw a falling star in the heavens, and she whispered to herself, "Oh, I wish for a daughter," Then she said to the King, "Excuse me, sire, I am going to my room for a shawl."

She hurried up the great stone stairs to her room and there in the moonlight, on her bed, lay the baby girl. The Queen was so excited she called out of her window and the King came bounding upstairs, two at a time."

They were so surprised they sat on the edge of the bed several minutes before the Queen picked up the child. Then she saw the flashing opal Santa had put in the baby's hand.

"Oh," gasped the Queen, "the stone of ill omen." She hugged her little daughter closer.

The King comforted her, "We will take special care of this child, don't fear. The opal I will place in my jewel case."

But the Queen hardly slept that night between fear and joy.

TOMORROW: Princess Hildur and the cave.

WHAT WAS THE SCORE, PASTOR?

Uses Sermon to Illustrate Sermon, Forgets Final Tally.

DUBUQUE, Ia.—(AP)—Dr. Max Strang of the First Congregational church, driving home a point in a sermon, related how the memory of a dead coach inspired the Lubbock (Tex.) high school football team.

The sermon mounted toward a stirring climax with Lubbock trailing Waco, 7 to 6, at the half, but the minister forgot to give the final score.

Within an hour more than 50 parishioners telephoned Dr. Strang to learn how the game came out. (Lubbock won, 13 to 7).

WED IN DECEMBER

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—(U.P.)—December is the month of brides in Alabama. A state health department survey shows that for the past decade more licenses have been issued in December than in any other month. June, the traditional marriage month, ranked only about half way on the list of most popular months.

APPROVE BUDGET

County School Board Sends Finance Report To State.

The Richland county board of education's budget, calling for the expenditure of $8,000 in 1942, an increase of $500 over this year, had been approved today and sent to the state education department.

Supt Boyd Robinson said the increase represented a pay increase for H. J. Sir Louis, county school attendance officer, and minor increases in the cost of supplies.

The county board of education will receive $300 for its expenses next year. Other items included in the budget are traveling expenses for the county superintendent and the attendance officer, salary of the office secretary, Miss Margaret Oswalt; purchase of diplomas, office supplies, and postage.

Each of the county's rural and village school districts has its own budget, reducing the size of the county board's budget.

U. S. LOANS ON CORN, SOYBEANS SET FOR COUNTY

Government Schedules Rates For 1941 Crops; Rules For Eligibility Listed.

Government loans on the 1941 corn and soybean crops are available to Richland county farmers at the rate of 79 cents per bushel for corn and $1.05 per bushel on soybeans, according to county AAA officials.

The corn loan rate is 18 cents more per bushel than the 1940 figure. Soybean loans are offered county farmers for the first time this year.

Applications for corn loans will be received at the county AAA headquarters on North Diamond street until next Sept. 30. Soybean loans will be available only until Jan. 30, 1942.

To be eligible for loans, farmers must have planted within their acreage allotments this year and qualified for parity payments.

The $1.05 loan on soybeans is for No. 2 beans stored on the farm. The rate for beans for warehouse storage is 98 cents a bushel, AAA officials said. Loans will be granted only on ear corn until June 1. After that shelled corn will be accepted as security for loans.

The big increase in the corn loan rate is the result of higher corn prices and a new basis for determining loans. The county rate this year is set at 85 per cent of the parity price of corn, or the price that would be paid over a period of years during normal times.

BUCYRUS GRANGE HEAD INSTALLED

BUCYRUS — Adam Boryczka was installed as master of Bucyrus Masons at installation of officers held Tuesday night in Masonic temple. Boryczka succeeds Edwin Gearhart.

Other new officers are: Senior warden, Loren Knell; junior warden, S. K. Sollars; treasurer, H. E. Cook; secretary, T. C. Kiess; senior deacon, Emery Cole; junior deacon, J. E. Jones; tyler, Laird Dehart; trustee, S. E. Auck; chaplain, D. K. Auck; senior steward, H. J. Halliwill, and junior steward, Elmer C. Conner.

The retiring master was presented with an engraved wrist watch from the lodge.

NAME OFFICERS

GALION—The Ladies auxiliary to the Crawford County Medical society met recently and elected Mrs. C. A. Lingenfelter president for 1942.

Other officers named included: vice president, Mrs. E. C. Brandt of Crestline; secretary-treasurer Mrs. John Kiess of Bucyrus. Next month the hostess will be Mrs. C. H. King, Bucyrus.

County's 1,000 Men In Military or Naval Service Need Different Gifts This Year

The 'Usual' Just Won't Do Because Their Status Is Entirely Changed.

Before you check any one of the 1,000 Richland county soldiers or sailors off your Christmas list, shopper, take care—his gift situation has been entirely changed since he donned that free-swing, olive drab outdoor jacket or that nautical costume.

Don't mark him off with "the usual." The gift that rang the bell last Christmas may be about as useful as a violin in a submarine. Remember that he's sharing quarters this year with from five to ten thousand other young men.

There are 1,001 easy-to-get items, though, and in any price range—gifts that he can use and honestly appreciate.

A portrait of a famous president—done on Uncle Sam's famous green folding paper—is the simplest and surest of the lot.

Cigarets or tobacco if he smokes and candy whether he smokes or not are tops although in this line Mansfield area shoppers will have competition from a group of organizations working with the Chamber of Commerce. The Chamber groups plans to collect enough packs of cigarets this year to send a carton to each Richland county military man.

In the fancy line for smokers, the makers of a lighter that lights in a strong wind have dressed the case with various service emblems to sell at around $3.25. Then there's the lighter—based on the auto lighter—without a flame, about $2.

Stationary isn't the best gift, but there's a handy writing kit in cowhide with space for tablet, envelopes, pen and pencil, a pocket for letters and snapshots and spot for your picture. It's around $8 50.

If your general or admiral is a type that would go for a diary, the manufacturers are ready to take care of him.

This may strike you funny, but chances are he'd welcome a sewing equipment. You can get useful kits for from 50 cents to $3.

Shaving sets and toilet kits are good. You can get really fine ones for $2. For $7.50 officer's toilet kits are available which hang on a tent wall and unfold with a shelf on the bottom.

Clothes are a touchy matter because the army more or less prefers that the lads wear the outfits they're given—artistic ties are absolutely out. There are, however, some good things. If you're not the knitting sort, there's a tan sleeveless sweater, scarf and wristlets combination on the market for about $5.

For inexpensive items: horsehide gloves, 95 cents; heavy coat hangers, $1 95 with pants clamp; khaki air pillows, $1; electric pants presser, $1.95, toothbrushes, toothpaste, razor blades; shaving cream; shoe polish (tan for the army, black for the navy); handkerchiefs, comb and brush; shaving lotion.

If you're really in the chips this season and want to spend money, you can do that too. Portable radios come at $10 up. Cameras are good and there's a specially designed sleeping bag for service men if you have $24.

Finally there's a small duffle bag at $5 filled with all these items: Comb, nail file, flashlight, sewing kit, razor blades, memo book, hard water soap, automatic pencil and leads, nail clip, styptic pencil, shoe laces, shoe polish, small first aid kit, old fashioned wick lighter, and dental floss.

Now about mailing:

Wrapping is the same as it always was. Address packages carefully, wrap them securely, and mail them EARLY.

Postal officials have released the following set of dates packages must reach New York for overseas shipments to any men in our outposts. H. E. Homberger, Mansfield postmaster, said yesterday that to reach New York parcels should be in the Mansfield postoffice at least two days before they are due in New York. Parcels to be shipped to outposts from San Francisco should be shipped six days before sailing dates from that point.

Points served by New York shipping and the times ships are due in New York are:

St. Johns, Newfoundland, Dec 18, Bermuda, Dec. 20; Trinidad, Dec. 11; St. Lucia, Dec. 11; Antigua, Dec. 13; British Guiana, Dec. 11; Panama Canal Zone, Dec. 19; Cuba, Dec. 21.

For Hawaiian offices, mail should be in San Francisco by Dec. 12.

Mail for Iceland and Greenland should be dispatched well in advance of deadlines for other Atlantic off-shore points.

For Navy men, all packages should be addressed in this style: Seaman John Doe, USS North Carolina, care Postmaster, New York. If you are sure your man is on a ship in the Pacific, send the package in care of the San Francisco postmaster. In all cases, plan to have the package in the postmaster's hands as soon as possible.

'Praises Bee Bee's For Marvelous Relief From Kidney, Prostate Trouble'

Camden man declares he suffered much agony for 4 years with pains in hips, legs and back. Now feels 100% better after taking Bee Bee's.

Mr. J. C. Fulton, 64 years of age, 175 South Main street, Camden, Ohio, declares:

"I am a traveling salesman and I have to drive a lot in all kinds of weather. This driving has bothered my kidneys for the past four years. My condition was worse in cold weather.

"I was dizzy all the time and my loss of vitality and sleep made me so cross and disagreeable. My nights were broken up by getting up so many times. Some nights I would have to arise 8 times. Now that I have taken Bee Bee's I have to arise only once at night, and sometimes not at all. Two years ago I had to have my urine drawn by a doctor. I had terrible pains in my back and over my right hip and over my right kidney. It was hard for me to straighten up on account of the pains. My right leg would become numb and cold and I would have to swing it to get the circulation started. The neck of my bladder would burn and sometimes I couldn't urinate for five or ten minutes. Now since I have taken Bee Bees I feel fine and sleep well. I have many friends in Piqua and Middletown, O., and nearby places and I will recommend Bee Bee's to them and every one who suffers as I have.'

CHAPTER VIII

And of all the influx none was busier than C. H. Dennison in his capacity as liaison man for the company, his government and the contractor. Wige Lennon was the first man in town to learn what that C. H. stood for.

Rubbing his thin hands and smiling frostily, Mr. Higgins had brought the newcomer to Wige's wicket and introduced the two young men. Mr. Dennison wished to pen a personal account and would Mr. Lennon see to it that he was afforded every courtesy possible. A glint in the elderly banker's eye conveyed an impression to the teller that he better had.

It developed that the depositor's business signature was Chester H. Dennison. Almost at once Wige found that "Chester" increased his dislike for its owner, although the fellow acted friendly enough while their brief business was transacted. He liked it still less when Chester presented what appeared to be a check for a month's salary. Five hundred dollars. Wige's stipend for a half year's work was little more than that amount.

On top of that, the Lawhead Corporation had leased three vacant rooms over the bank and was having them transformed into a combined office and apartment for its local representative. This arrangement gave rise to pleasant speculation in certain feminine quarters. It looked very much as if Mr. Dennison were unmarried. Wige Lennon, among others of the town boys, shared that suspicion in resentful silence.

In the meantime, Cassandra Steel succumbed to the rising tide, half-defiant, half-apologetic when she broke the news at supper one evening that she was taking a boarder.

"My spare room's doing no earthly good year in and out," she contended, quite as if she expected a dispute to follow. "There was a nice, quiet-looking man here this afternoon . . . name's Davis. He's some sort of boss, I think. He must be. He offered to pay me fifteen dollars a week! It just didn't seem right not to take it when one more person in the house don't mean any great sight of extra work. Somebody . . . I must find out who . . . told him I had a clean house and set a good table."

"As you do," Andre interposed gallantly. "It's princely, no less . . . all that money. If it doesn't set a precedent." This last was lost on his sister.

"He's married, too," she resumed. "I asked him right away. His wife is in Pennsylvania some place and he may bring her here for a time. It seems to me I should have at least another ten dollars a week if he does."

"Thank God, the man's married. Now, I won't have to worry about any scandal under your roof."

"Don't be ridiculous! I'll have to give Mr. Davis an early breakfast and pack a lunch. I suppose we will have to have a little heavier supper, but we can eat less at noon. He has a car, too. I told him he could keep it in the barn."

"We must cultivate this stranger," Andre decided. "It's going to give the old place quite an air . . . a man sleeping in the spare room and a car sleeping in the barn. Eh, Carol?"

She nodded with a faint smile. That last remark had made her think of Mr. Dennison. She had spoken to him once or twice in passing and that was all. He had vanished so completely from her environment that she almost had ceased to wonder why he came to see Andy that night and the little thrill of riding in his car was gone, too. Even the amusement caused by Wige's sudden jealousy.

Hence she found herself almost incoherent with amazement one afternoon when Mr. Dennison walked into the office. This time, he found her busied with a bit of embroidery and, as before, Dr. Silverthorne was on a round of visits.

"How are you today, Miss Delaine?" was his affable greeting. "Please don't get up. And you don't need to trot out a bottle . . . unless it's a friendly one." He smiled at the idea.

"Then you haven't hurt yourself again?" Carol quickly recovered her composure.

"No indeed. I'm watching my steps these days. One scare like that's quite enough."

"Doctor Silverthorne isn't in just now," she explained demurely.

"I don't want to see him . . . interesting as he is. I dropped up to see you."

"To see me?"

"Yes. If you're not busy, I'm going to treat myself to a loaf in that rocking chair . . . exactly one cigaret long. Do you mind?"

"Of course not," was the quiet answer.

Her caller lighted a cigaret, but seemed in no haste to state his errand and Carol bent over her work, uncomfortably aware that two gray eyes studying her. What could he possibly want?

To Chester's complete annoyance, the excuse he had formulated now seemed so trumped-up that he felt less than simple. It was the second time this calm-faced girl had succeeded in giving him that same estimate of himself. Perhaps it accounted for her being rather persistently in the background of his thoughts during all the busy days since he had spoken to her. He was not accustomed to having anyone do that to him. If she had been anybody in the world except Delaine's daughter—

He wouldn't admit it, even to himself, but sheer curiosity was responsible for this visit. The reason for that curiosity was something else again. Chester hadn't allowed himself to go into that.

"I'm beginning to feel quite the citizen here, Miss Delaine," he ventured for want of a better start. "I suppose you know that I have an office, too. Not to mention starting housekeeping."

"Yes. I know." Carol did not look up.

"Of course I'm not organized yet . . . have to spend too much time outside. A little later on I'll be obliged to have the firm give me some assistance . . . send me someone who is familiar with things." He blew out a long thread of smoke. "But, just now, I was wondering if it would be possible to find some young woman here who could answer the telephone and take messages for me. I wouldn't expect to discover a stenographer, though that would give me some very nice help." He watched her closely.

Carol frowned slightly as if she were trying to think, but her mind was in a sudden turmoil. Only one thing was clear, the amazing conjecture that Mr. Dennison was going to ask her if she would like the job. But his next words disillusioned her and brought her out of her momentary daze.

"Of course I wouldn't hire any girl who is employed. My need may be very temporary. It wouldn't be fair to do that."

Carol had herself in hand now. She tipped her head to one side, Andy's familiar habit, and studied her work with a smile.

"Now that's quite too bad," she offered lightly. "I thought you were going to try to take me away from the doctor."

"I wouldn't think of it." Chester watched her face closely. This was the moment, he had been waiting for. "You weren's planning to quit, were you?"

"No indeed." Carol's eyes met his steadily. "I'm likely to be here the rest of my life."

"Oh come now!" The old irritation edged his voice. "You don't expect me to believe that, do you?"

"Why not? I think a person is silly to give up any job these days . . . if they like it at all."

"You're absolutely right," Chester agreed hurriedly. Then she still didn't know what her father had done. It seemed unbelievable. "You see," he explained, "it happens that you are the only young lady I have met here, become acquainted with I mean. I had an idea you knew most of the girls in town. That you might have some suggestion . . ." The going wasn't very good.

"Why, I can't think of anyone . . ." She brightened suddenly. "Yes, I can! I have a girl friend. Her name is Patricia Garver. She went to the business college in Centertown and she isn't working just now. She might be interested."

"Garver . . . Where does she live?"

"The fourth . . . no, the fifth . . . house beyond ours. On the same side of the street."

"Thanks. I'll make a note of it." If he did, it was only a mental one. After a pause, he asked with polite interest: "Have you always lived in Jericho, Miss Delaine?"

"Not quite. But this is the only home I remember."

"It's a pleasant little place. I dare say you have traveled about enough to realize that."

"I'm afraid I haven't."

"But you'd like to?"

"Yes, indeed." There was a sudden wistfulness in the brown eyes. "If I were rich, I'm positive I'd be on the go all the time. I've dreamed for a long time of seeing Europe. Too long, I'm afraid. I don't suppose it will ever be the same again. But there are plenty of places in this country I'd like to see."

"Then I'm sure you will." Chester got to his feet, walked across to the heating stove that Silverthorne kept in his waiting-room winter and summer, opened its door and disposed of his cigaret stub. "Good little girls almost always get the things they want. Thanks very much for letting me bother you. I must be going. Good afternoon."

Carol made no reply. For some reason, that remark about girls filled her with resentment—the way he said it. He certainly could be disagreeable. Perhaps that wasn't the word. "Good little girls!"

Her eyes suddenly filled with blank dismay. What had she done! Giving him Patty's name like that. Everybody in town knew that Mr. Dennison lived at the office. Didn't he know that Jericho would think his plan was the same as asking a girl to work in his bedroom? He must be—crazy. Carol laughed almost hysterically when she thought of what prim little Mrs. Garver would say. She must see Patty this very night and tell her that she hadn't thought what she was about. How could she have been so stupid?

It still was worrying her when she ate a hurried supper, intending to run over to the Garvers before any harm could be done. Andy, however, changed her plans.

"Oh, say ducklet," he remarked confidentially, "come up to my room a minute, will you? Got something I want to show you."

CITY'S POLICE TO BEGIN STUDY OF WAR DUTIES

Special Training To Start Friday; Bates To Instruct Along FBI Lines.

Mansfield police will begin an intensive course in the instruction of the "wartime duties of police" Friday evening under the direction of Police Chief Meade K. Bates.

Last week, policemen attended the opening session of the school but received no training. They heard Bates outline the course which they would study and were introduced to a few of their wartime problems.

Tomorrow, however, they will plunge into work in earnest. Bates has prepared a schedule of classes patterned after those he studied at the FBI National Police Academy at Washington, D. C.

Among the emergency duties to be studied will be the enforcement of blackouts, convoy work, guarding protected places and areas, gas decontamination, prevention of malicious acts, looting, wartime traffic and investigation of sabotage and espionage.

Bates emphasized that although civilian police deputies will probably be appointed later as the defense picture clears that such deputies would be allowed to work only in the company of a regular patrolmen.

Next April, law enforcement officers from this area will attend a six-day school here in Mansfield conducted by the FBI. Law enforcement chiefs from the various communities in the Mansfield area will designate special members of the squads to attend the school.

Bates said he hopes to obtain motion picture films and lantern slides from the FBI showing police in England working under wartime conditions. Blackboard instruction will also be used to show patrolmen how to carry out their respective duties.

The Mansfield patrolmen will also be told how their work would be co-ordinated with that of fire wardens, Red Cross workers, Home Guard units and other civilian defense organizations.

The sessions will be held every Friday evening in the municipal courtroom.

THEY OUGHT TO BE WELL READ

Professor, Wife Find They Were Reading 66 Books at Once.

CHICAGO—(AP)—William Montgomery McGovern, young professor of political science at Northwestern university, was upbraided by his wife who was concerned because 69 books were littered, face open, around their bedroom.

"Now dear," she told him, "let's just put away the books we're not reading."

Setting to work, they found she was reading three and he 66. They're all still there.

Cleveland Sells Rollie Hemsley to Cincinnati Reds

Sport Podge by REX HESS

The North Central Ohio high school athletic league system appears to be working in its well-greased fashion once more.

You'll remember how the system worked on Mansfield some years ago. For several years there had been increasing complaint from different spots in the circuit that: "Mansfield's too tough. They should get out or, we should kick 'em out."

They finally got Mansfielders to thinking the same way.

So when Marion finally took the lead in a concerted effort to drive Mansfield from the league, the Tygers were very happy to resign, having become convinced by then that they were wasting their time fooling around in that small time football.

Now Marion has been the subject of scattered complaints for at least two seasons And it's the same old complaint. "Marion is too tough." The Presidents have just won part or all of the league grid title for three straight years.

And Marion fans, according to the Marion Star, are beginning to feel the same way about it. They want to graduate into a better class of football.

* * *

The stage is all set for Marion to resign from the N. C. O. just as soon as Marion fans wake up to the fact that they'll have to build the school a gymnasium in which to play basketball.

Marion is already lined up to enter the newly organized Big Seven cage circuit, which includes Springfield, Lima Central, Dayton Roosevelt, and other schools comparable to Marion in athletics.

A football schedule with the same schools wouldn't be too big a jump for the Presidents to take.

* * *

The recent offer of N. C. O schools to permit Marion to play its league schedule entirely away from home, with one game at each town called a home game for Marion, was hailed as a great bit of sportsmanship.

BUT FIRST the league voted that no league games should be played in Marion until proper accommodations could be provided the visiting teams and fans.

Coach Dewey Bohyer of Marion in a letter to the Star says the highest degree of friendliness prevailed when the action was taken

But wouldn't it have been more friendly for the league to permit Marion to suggest that it play all its games away from home, rather than for the league to put a definite ruling against Marion on the books?

* * *

Just keep on nudging, boys. It shouldn't be long now. And who will be next? Ashland?

Cash Deal Surprises Baseball

No Hint of Waivers on Tribe Catcher Given.

JACKSONVILLE — (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds bought Catcher Rollie Hemsley from the Cleveland Indians today in a straight cash deal which was announced shortly after daybreak.

* * *

The deal came as a complete surprise because there had been no hint that the American league had waived on Hemsley and none of the Cincinnati officials had been seen conferring with Cleveland.

* * *

Hemsley, who has been considered one of the leading catchers of the major leagues, was with Cincinnati in 1933 as one chapter in a long and speckled baseball career.

Apparently the deal was the first step in a move to smooth out turbulent elements among the Indians for the new manager, Lou Boudreau

Now 34 years old, Hemsley played in 98 games for the Tribe last season and batted .240. He has been with Cleveland four years.

Hemsley came into the major league at Pittsburgh in 1928, and stayed there until mid-season in 1931, when he was traded to the Chicago Cubs for Earl Grace.

He was used as a pinch hitter in the 1932 world series and in December of that year was sold to Cincinnati. In the middle of 1933 he was claimed by the St. Louis Browns on waivers.

* * *

Hemsley was with the Browns for five years and in 1934 batted 309. In 1935, 1940 and 1941 he was a member of the American league's All-Star teams

AMBITIOUS?

JACKSONVILLE, Fla.—(AP)—The deal that took Catcher Rollie Hemsley to the Cincinnati Reds from the Cleveland Indians today could have been a step to lighten young Lou Boudreau's load as manager of the Tribe

* * *

It was believed that one of the reasons for the deal was the fact that Hemsley had ambitions to become manager of the Indians and that after Lou Boudreau was given the job last week it was deemed best to dispose of his services.

Hemsley, who is 34 has been rated one of the best receivers in the majors the past two seasons since he took his pledge with alcoholics anonymous to refrain from drinking He hit 240 last season in 96 games and had a lifetime average of 269 last season.

The acquisition of Hemsley by the Reds was believed to be the forerunner of other deals by Cincinnati. Manager Bill McKechnie and General Manager Warren C. Giles had breakfast with officials of the Pittsburgh Pirates this morning and were believed to have reopened negotiations for Infielder Arky Vaughan

Navy Cagers Trim Notre Dame, 52-46

SOUTH BEND, Ind. —(INS)— A "National Defense" basketball team — the star-studded Great Lakes (Ill.) Naval Training Station quintet—posted notice today it will have something to say this season about midwestern cage honors.

* * *

The training station five proved itself last night with a 52 to 46 win over a stubborn but outclassed Notre Dame university team before about 4,500 fans.

* * *

First half honors went to the Irish, who led 19 to 15 at the intermission, but after that the weight of the Great Lakes all-star lineup began to tell.

High scorer of the game was Bill Menke, former Indiana ace now at Great Lakes, who tallied 13 points. Other standouts for the winners were Frank Baumholtz, former Ohio university star, and Bob Callihan, ex-Detroit university sharp-shooter.

Golf Association Lists 1942 Matches

NEW YORK—(INS)—The United State Golf association today announced dates and locations for the leading 1942 tourneys.

The national open will be held June 18-20 at the Interlachen Country club at Minneapolis, Minn.

* * *

The national amateur will be held Sept. 7-12 at Del Monte, Cal., where it was last held in 1929.

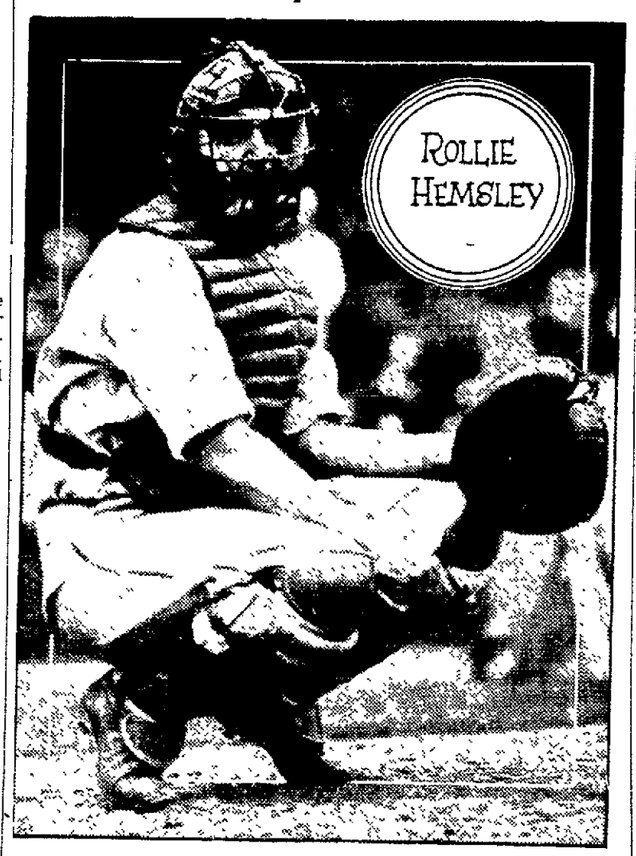
The women's championship will be played Sept. 21-26 at Southern Hills Country club, Tulsa, Okla.

The amateur public links championship will be held at the Wellshire club, Denver, Col., between July 27 and Aug. 1.

PIRATE SOLD

PITTSBURGH —(AP)— The Pittsburgh Pirates Baseball club today announced outright sale of Catcher Ray Mueller to the Sacramento, Calif., team of the Pacific Coast league.

Rollie Hemsley Sold to Reds



A straight cash deal today sent Catcher Rollie Hemsley from the Cleveland Indians to the Cincinnati Reds as the Tribe began weeding out older players who might cause embarrassment for its new young manager, Lou Boudreau. The deal came as a surprise to the baseball world as there had been no hint that waivers had been obtained on Hemsley.

Rams Help Tygers Prepare For Opener Tomorrow Night

Several hundred fans, members of the Mansfield Downtown Coaches and Madison Boosters club, turned out at the high school gym last night for a basketball clinic on offensive and defensive systems a preview of the Mansfield High Tygers who open their season tomorrow night against Columbus South at the Senior high school gym, and an almost regulation game between the Tygers and Rams.

The ball game wasn't on the original program, but when Tyger Tutor Vern Hoffman and Madison Mentor Al Fendrick saw the boys beginning to take their work seriously in the clinic session, they decided to let them go to it in regular combat.

* * *

The scrimmage, which lasted through three regulation periods and part of a fourth, did the gridiron groggy Tygers a lot of good. They haven't had much time for cage practice, and while their workouts to date may have been satisfactory, their need of actual competition was clearly demonstrated in the first quarter.

They developed a shot-crazy streak under the hoop that was far from effective, and Madison, with one of its best teams in recent years led at the quarter's end 8 to 7

Then the Tygers began passing the ball around for open shots and soon were in control of the situation It wound up somewhere in the vicinity of 30 to 20 in favor of Mansfield, with Hoffman making liberal use of his subs.

It's a good thing the Tygers had last night's brush with the Rams and got the feel of the game before their tilt tomorrow night with Columbus South A similar opening period of wild shooting against South might prove embarrassing.

And the Rams, who swept over Lexington last Friday night 30 to 20, and who meet Union tomorrow night at Madison gym, also got a lot of good out of the practice session Similar scrimmages during the season probably would do both teams more good than practice tilts against their reserve squads.

* * *

Two Madison mites, Billy Wynn and Harold Hammer, made things particularly interesting for the Tygers, and it was their accurate shooting that kept Madison in the ball game through the first half.

For the Tygers Bob Winbigler showed flashes of his dead-eye, pot-shot form of last season, doing most of the scoring in the early part of the game, while Paul Dietzel started ringing up under-basket shots after the first quarter

Five Grid Teams Finish Play Better Than Expected

NEW YORK — (AP) — Oregon State, Texas A. and M., Vanderbilt, Notre Dame and Army—these were 1941 college football teams which showed unexpected strength. Colgate, Tulane, Texas Stanford and Colorado — were teams which failed to live up to their advance promise.

The ten teams listed, five on the "up" and five on the "down" side, are the most prominent examples from an annual Association Press survey designed to show how closely football follows pre-season ratings The survey shows there were just about as many, from coast to coast, on the right side of the ledger as on the wrong.

Since they will be playing in bowl games on New Year day, Oregon State and Texas A. and M. are perhaps the No. 1 "surprise" champions of the year.

* * *

Neither had been rated a contender in its conference race, yet each came through handsomely. Oregon State, behind a stout defense, fought its way into the Rose Bowl, and the Aggies, chiefly through the unexpected development of Derace Moser as the conference's best forward passer, became the first successful defending champions in southwest history and earned a Cotton Bowl berth.

* * *

Each section had its surprises and its disappointments. Here are the high spots in the mid-west:

Unexpected strength—Ohio State, which in its first year under high school marvel Paul Brown operated with brand-new precision; Notre Dame, given its first unbeaten season in 10 because Frank Leahy made the most of his new material. Michigan, with Bob Westfall and sophomores Tom Kuzma, Paul White and Merv Pregulman taking up the slack left by the graduation of Tom Harmon and company

Disappointing—Nebraska which, after losing 15 lettermen from its Rose Bowl squad, was hit further by injuries and lost five games in a row for the first time since 1899; Wisconsin, beaten chiefly through a porous pass defense.

Ohio Cage Teams Hit Outstaters

Take 2 Out of 3 Games From Non-Ohio Foes.

(By Associated Press)

OHIO college basketball teams emerged from three meetings with out-of-state quintets with a record of two wins and one defeat Wednesday night.

* * *

Defiance and Findlay trimmed Michigan invaders, while Rio Grande bowed before the Morehead, Ky., State Teachers.

Findlay was forced to freeze the ball in the closing seconds to stave off a determined rally by Adrian college and eke out a 49 to 47 decision. Findlay led at the half 24-10 and midway in the last half pushed ahead by 15 points before Adrian sharpshooters began clicking

Irv Barnett, 6-foot 8-inch Findlay center, a resident of Sandusky, was high scorer of the game with 15 points

Defiance showed class in its season opener, whipping Lawrence Tech of Detroit 52 to 43. Dick Lord, Findlay forward, entered an early bid for the state scoring crown by chalking up 30 points.

Jack Duncan, Rio Grande forward, set a fast pace with 19 points, but the Indians were overcome by a well-balanced Morehead attack 40-23 in the season opener at Rio Grande

Bowling Green dusted off Bluffton with ease, 53-28, with Dewey Johnson, senior forward, scoring 12 points for the winners

Now that Betty Hicks Newell is out of her way, Texas Betty Jameson is starting a campaign to regain her national women's golf crown. She will begin by making the Florida winter circuit. . . . Athletic Director Doug Mills won't even whisper who is in line for the Illinois coaching job but hot rumors elsewhere give it to either Don Peden of Ohio U or Missouri's Don Faurot, who has been hearing from a lot of important places since he has done so well with the Tigers. . . . Boston scribes think Joe Cronin won't even try to play next summer because he has packed on 25 pounds since the season ended and isn't making his usual efforts to take it off.

RED FACES ROUNDUP.

Officials of the Middle Atlantic league once devoted a long session to wrangling about whether they should adopt the American or National league ball. One argued the American league ball was too lively, another that the National league pellet would "take" a deeper curve and curb hitting. Finally they called in a representative of the manufacturer, who told him the two balls were made on exactly the same machines and merely stamped with different names. It took the moguls a couple of years to get over that, but now they merely specify a "major league" ball.

Riddle Puts Bee For Raise

Red Pitcher Asks Twice Last Year's Pay Rate.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla—(AP)—Elmer Riddle jumped the holdout season today and was reported putting the bee on the Cincinnati Reds for a flat doubling of his 1941 pay check.

Riddle, who came to Cincinnati from Birmingham in 1939, was the pitching sensation of the National league last season when he won 19 games and lost 4, establshing an earned-run average of about 2.20. The previous year he worked in 15 games as a relief pitcher, winning one and losing two.

* * *

Elmer came here for the meeting of the National association of professional baseball leagues and presumably swapped good-mornings with Business Manager Warren Giles of the Reds and other front office officials. The Reds didn't speak of salaries, but Elmer's notions were not secret. They ran to five figures.

Riddle's 1941 salary was not disclosed, but baseball men estimated it in the neighborhood of $6,000 or $7,000.

Big Hank Leiber returned to the New York Giants today in a deal that sent Pitcher Bob Bowman to the Chicago Cubs and it was anybody's guess whether the trade was worth all the labor that went into it.

The first big league player swap of the minor league meetings was made in a smoke-filled hotel room at 2 a. m. today after representatives of the two clubs had wrangled nearly three hours over terms of the transaction.

As finally announced, the trade called for the Giants to give not only a right-handed hurler but a sum of cash for the big blond outfielder who has shown signs of being one of the most dangerous sluggers in the National league.

The money involved was generally estimated at $10,000, but this was in doubt because the Cubs went into the conference reportedly seeking something like four times that amount.

Leiber broke into the National league in 1933 with the Giants and became one of the outstanding outfielders of the circuit. In his first full season in 1935 he hit .331 and batted in 107 runs. He lapsed into the doldrums after that and Terry traded him to Chicago after the 1938 season in a deal that gave Leiber, Dick Bartell and Gus Mancuso for Frank Demaree, Billy Jurges and Ken O'Dea.

Leiber hit .310 for the Cubs in 1939, and .302 in 1940. Then last summer he was beaned by Cliff Melton. Hank got back into the lineup late this season, but wound up the year with an average of .216 for 53 games.

Bowman won six and lost seven games for the Giants last season, although he pitched in only 78 innings.

* * *

In another deal Van Lingle Mungo, one time pitching star of the Brooklyn Dodgers, and Charley Angelo Giuliani were traded by the Montreal Royals of the International league to Minneapolis of the American association for a left-handed pitcher, Joe Hatton.

Extra Quarter To Stop Tie Games

PHILADELPHIA - (AP) - Perhaps an omen of things to come in college football, a "sudden death" extra period to prevent ties, may determine the winner of the Western division in the National Pro league this season.

That is, of course, if the championship Chicago Bears beat the Chicago Cardinals on Sunday. A victory for the Bears will place them in a tie with the Green Bay Packers and force a playoff Dec. 14 for the right to meet the New York Giants Dec. 21 for the league crown.

Assuming a playoff will be necessary, representatives of the Bears and Packers agreed to the sudden death provision at a meeting here yesterday. The first team to score in the extra period, if the regulation game ends in a tie, wins.

Dreams Up Bowl Wins

Ferguson Picks Missouri But Won't Insure Bets.

By HARRY FERGUSON

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— Rushing in where angels fear to tread in an attempt to pick the winners of the New Years day bowl games:

Missouri over Fordham in the Sugar bowl—This one should be the best of the bunch. It pits two high-scoring teams against each other and both of them are loaded with fast, powerful, colorful players. As a guess, Fordham probably will be the betting favorite, chiefly because of the good impression they made in the south and southwest in the Cotton bowl last season. Trying to predict the pattern of a football game is like trying to forecast the trend in women's hats, but here's the way I think the game will shape up:

Missouri, moving along the ground and exploding for long gains, probably will score first. Fordham will come back with a passing attack—and what a passing attack!—and the game will see-saw fairly evenly into the final period. At that stage, I think, the superiority of the Missouri line will begin to show and the Tigers will come out about one touchdown ahead. Lloyds of London refuses to insure football bets, so don't sue if I'm wrong.

Duke over Oregon State in the Rose bowl—this one, I think, is just a case of one team being too good for the other. Wallace Wade has offensive strength and can start the boys rolling toward pay dirt anytime he feels like it.

Georgia over Texas Christian in the Orange bowl—this is the game where one man—Frank Sinkwich of Georgia—is going to have a lot to do with the outcome. TCU is going to have to find some way to stop Sinkwich from running, and the catch in that is that if you mass a line closely against him he will drop back and start slinging passes.

Texas Aggies over Alabama in the Cotton bowl—maybe I'm off on a tangent here because I saw the Aggies play this season and didn't see Alabama. Another angle is that the day I saw the Aggies they were busy mopping up the gridiron with New York university, which isn't much competition. Nevertheless, I think Homer Norton has a slick, powerful and resourceful team that should be able to nose out Alabama.

WESTFALL, MICHIGAN ACE, CONSIDERS PROS

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—(INS)—Bob Westfall, Michigan's ace spinner back who already has been named on several all-American teams, said today he is considering a whirl at professional football.

"I haven't made up my mind yet," Westfall explained, "but pro ball looks awfully good to me."

Pick Bierman As Top Coach

UP Names Minnesota Mentor Best In Nation.

By JACK GUENTHER

NEW YORK — (U.P.) — He was widely heckled for playing dull ball, yet he unveiled the most spectacular scoring trick of the season. He was supposed to command more man-power than any other coach, yet he was forced to squeeze through most of two games without a regular halfback. The United Press presents as 1941 coach of the year Minnesota's white-haired boy—Bernie Bierman.

He wins the selection by a slim margin over two standout challengers, Frank Leahy of Notre Dame and Lon Stiner of Oregon State, because he never needed an excuse. His team faced power and speed, rain and snow and a schedule almost as tough as any in the nation—and he answered every question with a triumph until his Gophers were hailed as national champs.

Bierman is a chunky, methodical veteran who has devoted all but 20 of his 47 years to football and he is as good a choice as any as the top man in his trade. He is Minnesota born, Minnesota bred and Minnesota schooled, and right now he could well rank as his state's favorite son. For in five of the nine years he has spent at Minneapolis, he has brought Gophers football teams through their season without defeat.

His first coaching job was at Butte, Mont., high school and his 1916 team scored 300 points to six.

After a few months as a second lieutenant in Cuba during the war, he went to University of Montana to coach football, basketball and track. In his three years there his teams maintained a .500 average. Then he left sports again for two years to sell bonds, but bobbed up as assistant to Clark Shaughnessy at Tulane. From there he went to Mississippi A. & M., and in 1927 he returned to Tulane as head coach through 1931.

At Tulane he became famous. His Green Wave elevens won 35 games, lost 10, and tied two in five years, were undefeated in both 1929 and 1931 and finally won so much prominence that his last team went to the Rose Bowl. Bierman lost that game, 20-12, to Southern California, but his success had been recognized at his alma mater and he went back to Minnesota.

* * *

Bierman has won 55 games, lost 12 and tied five in his nine years at Minneapolis, and four of them have been lauded as mythical national champions.

Duquesne May Not Get Bowl

Sun Bowl Committee Still Undecided on Opponents.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M.—(AP)—Duquesne university's undefeated, untied and uninvited football forces may not, it was learned today, be uninvited after all in the annual bowl selections.

The Pittsburgh eleven, along with several other leading elevens, is very much in the eye of the Sun Bowl committee for the deep Southwest's annual New Year day classic at El Paso.

"The most serious sort of consideration" is being given Duquesne, a Sun Bowl spokesman admitted. On purely general grounds, the Dukes could be considered a logical contender, being undefeated and victors over such teams as Marquette, Villanova, Mississippi State and St. Mary's of California.

But the Sun Bowl committee must wait until after Saturday when the border conference season comes to an end before making invitations.

Border conference schools, as the Sun Bowl host, will be polled Saturday night on the conference choice. Arizona university, undefeated in conference play, and the powerful Texas Tech Red Raiders appeared the likely choice for the bowl spot.

* * *

In addition to Duquesne, strong support has been accorded Virginia, Xavier of Cincinnati, Marshall college of Huntington, W. Va., South Carolina, Youngstown college, Western Michigan, Eastern Kentucky—and several others.

* * *

Of all Sun Bowl possibilities, the most vocal support has come from Cincinnati where civic groups put the case of Xavier squarely before the bowl committee.

Ashland Loses Stellar Team But Cage Outlook's Bright

ASHLAND — Having a hard time trying to fill the shoes vacated by such stars as Jim Richcreek, Bob Sprague, Bob Shively, Virge Seobey, Bud Plank, Mac McGuen and Don Sowers is the problem that is facing Coach Frank Lonero of the Ashland College Eagles basketball team.

Trying to make another winner like the club of the past three years will be a very tough task for the Eagles mentor. The outlook at the present indicates that the club has fine possibilities of turning into a winner although the team lacks heighth. Only three members reach the six-foot mark with one of them hitting six-foot two inches.

Thirteen cagers answered Coach Lonero's call for practice a week ago. The squad has been cut down to nine men with the tenth member becoming eligible at the start of the second semester.

Jack Saunders, six-foot two inch junior from Youngstown, is one of three holdovers from last years squad. He will start at the center post and should be very tough on play around the hoop. Ronnie Slater, six-foot senior from Oberlin, is a veteran of two years and will hold down one of the guard berths. Jim Poe, a senior from Rittman, is the third holdover from last years team. He isn't likely to get a starting post, but should see plenty of service.

Newcomers to the squad this year are Vince Barr, sophomore; Phil Smith, sophomore; Bob Ward, sophomore; K. Fiscbinger, junior; Bill Frisby, junior; and Marshall Mumaw, sophomore. Mike Geisz, junior from Cleveland, will be eligible the second semester. Others who reported out but who were dropped from the squad were Preston Burgraff, sophomore from Mt. Gilead; Johnny Ryan, junior from Massillon; and Harold Clawson, sophomore from Ashland.

The Eagles have a tough 17 game schedule ahead of them with fourteen of the games being with Ohio Conference opponents. No new opponents have been added to the schedule this year. The Eagles open their season this Saturday against an Alumni team. Their first collegiate action will be Tuesday when the team travels to Heidelberg to meet the Student Princes. Before the vacation period begins the Eagles will meet Findlay and Kent State at home on Dec. 12 and 16, respectively.

The Ashland schedule is as follows: Dec. 6, Alumni, here; Dec. 9, Heidelberg, there; Dec. 12, Findlay, here; Dec. 16, Kent State, here; Jan. 9, Wilmington, there; Jan. 10, Capital, there; Jan. 16, Baldwin-Wallace, there; Jan. 20, Bowling Green, here; Jan. 28, Ohio Northern, here;

Feb. 3, Baldwin-Wallace, here; Feb. 6, John Carroll, there; Feb. 7, Kenyon, there; Feb. 12, Kenyon, here; Feb. 14, Hiram, there; Feb. 17, Heidelberg, here; Feb. 20, Ohio Northern, there; Feb. 23, Kent State, there.

DRIVER FINED AFTER ACCIDENT

Crestline Motorist In Court In Mishap In Which Two Children Were Injured.

Albert D. Seyfors, Crestline, driver of an automobile which struck two Springfield township sisters late Tuesday as they walked along U. S. Route 30-S in Ontario, was fined $50 and costs yesterday afternoon in municipal court by Acting Judge H. H. Schettler.

Judge Schettler suspended $45 of the fine pending payment by Seyfors of bills for the treatment of injuries received by the two children, Glenna Riddle, 11 and Pauline, 7.

Seyfors told state highway patrolmen that the brakes became locked and he was unable to avoid hitting the children. He was charged with operating a motor vehicle with improper brakes.

Glenna, who suffered a fractured wrist and face jniuries was released from General hospital yesterday but Pauline who received a fractured right hip was retained for treatment. Her condition was reported by hospital attendants as "good."

The case of Robert Ray Imperio, 18, Ashland, driver of the car in which two youths were killed in a collision on U. S. Route 42 Sunday afternoon, was continued until Dec. 12, because Imperio is still confined to General hospital. Imperio was to have appeared in municipal court yesterday to face charges of unsafe operation. Maynard G. Sams, 22, Mansfield driver of the other car in the collision, filed the charges.

Housewife Set It Out to Cool, Then Drove Away.

LAKIN, Kan.—(AP)—The T. C. Prathers often park their sedan so close to the house that the car top is a convenient utility shelf—right out the kitchen window.

Mrs. Prather stopped and got out to see why everyone was staring at her when she drove down town. A fresh-baked chocolate pie was on top of the car. She'd placed it there to cool.

DEATH CLAIMS WORKING FISH

SCHENECTADY, N. Y.—(U.P.)—The last of three "working" goldfish is dead.

A large industrial plant found that it took a man seven hours a week to keep algae from the sides of a measuring bowl filled with water. The firm put the goldfish to work and the algae disappeared.

But after five months of faithful munching on the algae, the first goldfish turned brown and succumbed. The second was caught in a drainage pipe, sprained its back and succumbed.

The last one munched sorrowfully, declined and died—of loneliness.

PROFIT TAKING SLOWS ADVANCE OF STOCK MART

Fractional Improvements Still Predominate In Price Trend.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — The stock market again leaned to the recovery side today but further profit cashing generally limited improvement to fractions.

The direction was moderately upward at the start, with industrials in front. Rails were a bit hesitant. Dealings, speedy at the opening, slowed near the second hour.

Wall Street had more bullish ammunition in the anti-strike bill adopted by the house although suggestions were heard that the senate might tone down the measure substantially.

A little market encouragement was found in the Dun & Bradstreet summary placing the country's bank clearings for the week ended yesterday at 13.2 per cent over the preceding week and 20.4 per cent ahead of the corresponding period a year ago.
